NRA PRICE CONTROL BOARD LOOMS

Four Orange County Highway Projects In State Budget

ESTIMATE $458,300 FOR WORK

Santa Ana Canyon Road Improvement Listed Major Project at $200,000

WORK FOR VETERANS

Federal Government Will Add $16,000,000 to Funds Of State

FOUR HIGHWAY projects in Orange county, estimated to cost $458,300, including grade separation at The Arches intersection near Newport Beach, are included in the biennial budget of the California highway commission which was announced today in Sacramento.

Allocations for new construction or improvement of present highways in the state will total $34,352,438, the budget reveals. Fifty-nine million dollars is to be spent by the department of public works during the next two years on construction and maintenance, with Los Angeles county receiving the largest sum of $3,643,000 for 20 projects.

Improve Canyon Road

The principal item in the Orange county plans is the improvement of portions of the Santa Ana canyon road between Orange and Riverside. This important lateral connection between the inland and coast highways is narrow in places with grades and curves that slow up traffic. This work will cost $200,000.

The next largest project is an elaborate grade separation for the crossing at "The Arches" north of Newport Beach where the coast highway crosses state highway 43. This has long been considered a "bottleneck" traffic hazard and has been the scene of many accidents. An estimate of $180,000 has been set for the work.

A bridge over the Santa Ana river on Buaro street with incidental grading and paving of approaches will cost $52,000. This route, proposed as a new artery from Anaheim to Costa Mesa, crosses the river about one mile north of Talbert road.

Fourth Project

The fourth project in the county will be a bridge over Trabuco creek about two miles north of San Juan Capistrano on transcontinental highway 101 and will cost $26,000.

Although Orange county received a large proportion of the highways added to the state secondary road system, this year, Riverside and San Diego county

POLICE, SOLDIERS BESIEGE STRONGHOLD OF MACHADISTAS

Members Of Hated Porra Take Flight

Great Britain May Refuse To Extradite Machado If Request Made

HAVANA, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Machine gun and rifle fire broke Havana's post-revolution calm today when police and a battalion of soldiers besieged a house in the San Francisco suburb from which Machadistas, believed to be members of the Porra, shot two policemen and two soldiers.

The soldiers rushed the house and found Police Lieutenant Juan Valle, Miguel Colina, two old women, and a list of students apparently marked for killing under the Machado regime. The members of the Porra were believed to have escaped over rooftops. A machin gun had been fired from the house.

Authorities were convinced that Porristas were in the house, and there were persistent reports that one of the besieged was Former Chief of Police Anton Airciart, previously reported to have fled abroad.

The siege began soon after midnight.

Call Troops

After two policemen and two soldiers were wounded by fire from the barricaded house a battalion of soldiers was called and officers planned to bring up small field pieces and break in the front wall.

The siege was an isolated outbreak and the capital had returned to normal with the government already turned to constructive measures.

A crowd tried to lynch Victor Avalos, a member of the Porrista, when he was recognized on the Prado. Soldiers made a rescue by arresting him.

Manuela Macha, alias Mango Macha, a negro woman belonging to the woman's branch of the Porra, Machado's secret service gunman body, was taken to the Principe fortress.

Former Officials Surrender

Captain Jose Larrubia, hated former military supervisor at Santiago, who reported himself to army authorities at Santiago Tuesday, was brought to the capital and placed in the Cabanas fortress. Alfonso, Fors, former chief of secret police, and Santiago Trujillo, former chief of judicial police, were imprisoned also.

Mrs. Oscar B. Cintas, wife of the Cuban ambassador at Washington, former secretary of the presidency Ramiro Guerra and others fled to New York on the S. S. Morro Castle.

But these incidents were few. The city was normal and there had been no violent death in 36 hours.

BARBERS SUBMIT CODE FOR STUDY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—(UP)—A barbers' code that would establish the price of a haircut at 65 cents and a shave at 35 cents, and a lumber code banning unfair trade practices were studied today by the California recovery administration.

Besides setting the higher prices, the code submitted by the California state association of journeymen barbers would establish a work week of 45 hours, with pay fixed at $35 plus 60 per cent of all receipts over $50. Pro rata wage payments would be made to part time workers.

Three thousand barbers would be affected. Premiums and inducements to spur business would be barred.

The California Retail Lumbermen's association proposed code would apply to an unspecified number of dealers, listed in 1929 as 1010. It would be superseded by adoption of a national lumber code, now being prepared in Washington.

NAZI GOVERNMENT DEALT HARD BLOW

VIENNA, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Premier Engelbert Dollfuss struck a damaging blow against the Austrian Nazi government when he persuaded the cabinet today, after a seven-hour meeting, to decree forfeiture of citizenship and confiscation of property of Austrians who agitate against the government abroad, and Austrians who leave the country without permission.

The cabinet took no decision on the question of asking the recall of Dr. Kurt Rieth, German minister, for alleged aid to Austrian Nazis plotting against the government.

BLAME COMMUNISTS FOR STRIKE PLOT

LONG BEACH, Aug. 17.—(UP)—A plot to agitate a strike among 8000 local reconstruction finance corporation workers was charged to Communist organizers today by Long Beach police.

Detectives claimed they had definite information that organizers were attempting to get workers to strike August 22 in protest against a recent reduction in work hours and the 40-cent hourly wage scale. Dwindling funds caused county charity authorities to reduce the workday to four hours.

The workers were employed on road projects, financed by R.F.C. funds.

READY TO OPEN DRIVE ON 'BLUE EAGLE CHISELERS'

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—(UP)—A stack of papers two feet high provided the opening wedge today for NRA Administrator George Creel's campaign against "Blue Eagle Chiselers" in the California-Utah-Nevada district.

"Those are affidavits and complaints against employers accused of breaking their NRA agreements," the aggressive Creel said, pointing to a steadily mounting pile.

"Thousands of complaints have poured in from the three states. Each complaint is being taken care of. The clamping down will start Monday when violators will have had two weeks in which to correct their errors."

After giving accused agreement violators opportunity to explain, Creel said he planned to turn the charges over to federal prosecuting officials for action.

The district administrator will leave by airplane tomorrow on a speech-making and inspection trip to Reno, Salt Lake City and Portland.

OIL CODE TO BE APPROVED IS FORECAST

Ickes, Johnson expect Pact Will Be Signed Before Day Is Ended

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Approval today of the oil code including full agreement to it by the industry was forecast by Secretary of Interior Ickes and General Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, after a conference with President Roosevelt.

"We are agreed on the general principle of the code but as to specific details, you will have to wait until the draft is ready," Johnson said.

Ickes declared "we were discussing the oil code and very real progress on it was made. The draft will be ready in a few hours, and I hope to have it signed today."

Neither Ickes nor Johnson would say what branch of the government would administer the code, although both were insistent that a 100 per cent agreement on it would be obtained.

Questioned closely concerning a possible price fixing clause, both insisted that no details would be revealed until the draft was ready to be given out by the recovery administration.

As Johnson prepared to enter his automobile, he laughingly remarked that he had a theatrical code ready, fixing the hours and wages of chorus girls and chorus men.

NAME HOOVER IN PROBE OF BANK FAILURE

Former President Requested Approval Of Loan To Dawes, Charge

DETROIT, Aug. 17.—(UP)—A statement approving the loan of $90,000,000 to the Dawes bank—to be used for political purposes—was requested of him by former President Hoover, Senator James Couzens testified at the bank inquiry today.

"The nation was shocked when it leaked out that Dawes had received a $90,000,000 loan," Senator Couzens said. "Shortly afterward President Hoover asked me to issue a statement approving the loan. The statement was to have been used for political purposes, but I want to explain now that the Dawes loan was to finance a new bank.

"The loans which I opposed to a Detroit bank were for an old bank in apparently bad shape."

The senator read from a prepared statement when he first took the stand in the crowded assembly room where for weeks a one-man grand jury under Judge Keidan has been probing the collapse of Detroit's two largest banks. Under the questioning from Prosecutor Harry S. Toy he quickly discarded the text and varied from defense of his own position in Washington to charges that the real, inside story of the bank collapse "has not been told."

NEGRO 'CONFESSES' TO LAMSON MURDER

SAN JOSE, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Authorities who were minutely prepared to charge David A. Lamson, Stanford university minor official, with the murder of his wife when his trial opens here next Monday, were faced today with a purported "confession" of a negro transient that he killed the woman.

The "confession" did not come from the negro, but was reported by Joseph Begley, Southern Pacific grade crossing watchman at Menlo Park, a short distance from the campus home of the Lamsons.

Police were skeptical, but hunted the negro in order to question him directly. Defense attorneys hinted they might call Begley as a defense witness, to create a "reasonable" doubt in the minds of jurors that Lamson killed his young wife, Allene.

LAUNCH PROBE OF BOND THEFT RING

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—(UP)—The county grand jury pried deeper today into the operations of an asserted "stolen bond ring" which authorities allege sought to dispose of $125,000 worth of securities, stolen in middle western bank robberies.

Four men and a woman were linked by investigators in the asserted conspiracy. Elmer S. Wagoner, self-styled Oklahoma Oil operator, was charged in a complaint with receiving stolen property. Harry M. Curry, an attorney, was accused of conspiring with two other men to negotiate stolen bonds and Mrs. Jewell Senhause, wife of an oil refinery worker, was accused of forging a signature to two $1,000 Liberty bonds, stolen last October from a Herington, Kan., bank.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Approximately 1,500,000 workers have gone back to their jobs in the nation's industrial areas since last March, Secretary of Labor Perkins said today.

The manufacturing industries of the country re-employed 1,100,000 wage earners during the four months while about 300,000 went back to their jobs in the non-manufacturing industries, Secretary Perkins said.

JEERING MOB HECKLES L. A. SUPERVISORS

Property Owners, Unemployed Attack County Budget For 1933-34

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Los Angeles county's budget for 1933-34 was attacked by property owners and unemployed alike today as too high as a jeering, heckling group thronged the office of the board of supervisors.

Led by the property owners division of the Los Angeles realty board, a demand was made for a reduction instead of increase of the present 88-cent base tax rate.

Representatives of the unemployed cooperative relief unit, present to protest a four hour day instituted on work relief projects, joined in shouting and booing the board.

J. Francis Potter, chairman of the realty board's tax committee, as principal speaker for the group, declared problems confronting the board resulted from acts of former.

Potter referred particularly to the "extravagant" county hospital, the San Gabriel dam fiasco, the purchase of art exhibits for the museum and "a thousand and one other unwarranted expenditures."

He also attacked the preliminary budget which listed $22,000,000 for charity relief during the fiscal year, and charged the budget was made up from the point of view of department heads demands rather than the ability of taxpayers to carry the burden.

Potter warned that a taxpayers' strike would follow unless expenditures were reduced.

CONTRACTOR KILLS BUSINESS RIVAL

WILMINGTON, Calif., Aug. 17.—(UP)—A Portuguese contractor killed a business rival, wounded a woman and then killed himself in an outburst of anger at being discharged from a sidewalk job, police reported today.

Manuel Gomez, 36, appeared at the home of Mrs. J. R. McKee, and without warning opened fire on Joe Paracia, 48, who had been hired to replace him in building a sidewalk, police said. Mrs. McKee's sister, Mrs. Margaret Kimball of Bakersfield, was struck in the body by a charge from Gomez's shotgun. The enraged man then turned the gun on himself.

Police said letters found on his person indicated he was a San Quentin ex-convict.

JAPAN'S WAR GAME IS NEARING CLIMAX

TOKIO, Aug. 17.—(UP)—A great "enemy" fleet of warships seeking to pierce the naval defenses of the empire and loose a swarm of air wasps and infantry on thickly-populated Japan was sighted by Hachijopjima islanders today as spectacular war maneuvers neared a climax.

Emperor Hirahito, supreme supervisor of the third largest navy afloat, was on a flagship of the "defending" fleet as it converged from many bases on the Bonin islands, 650 miles south of here, where the major "battle" will be fought.

Utmost secrecy surrounded the war games this year. Foreign newspapermen were not permitted to watch.

PLAN ACTION AS CURB TO PROFITEERS

Roosevelt Administration In Favor Of Group To Protect Consumers

RECOVERY IS MENACED

Purpose Of Act Nullified If Wage Increases Do Not Exceed Price Advances

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Strong support for creation of a price control board to regulate price advances and guard against profiteering, developed in the Roosevelt administration today.

Control of prices has become one of the most critical problems facing the national recovery administration.

The controversy which resulted in the withdrawal of Prof. William F. Ogburn, prominent economist, from the consumers advisory board has accentuated this situation, Ogburn warned that lack of statistical data might hamper the NRA program. He declared the present NRA consumers agencies were inadequate to protect the public.

Would Nullify Act

Advisers to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson have stressed the argument that fundamental purposes of the recovery act will be nullified if wages do not increase more than prices. In other words, mass purchasing power will not be improved if all the increases in wages have to be used to meet increased prices.

Supporters of the price control board point out that an agency of this character could keep an adequate check on all industries and determine when price increases were justified by increased costs resulting from presidential reemployment agreements or NRA codes. Signers of the agreements pledge themselves not to raise prices except as necessitated by actual cost advances.

The price control machinery might be set up as a joint agency of the NRA and the agricultural adjustment administration through their respective consumers' boards. Dr. Frederick Howe, AAA consumers' counsel, is an executive officer of the NRA consumers' board and the two groups have been attempting to coordinate their activities. The AAA board deals only with foodstuffs and a few other commodities affected by the farm relief program.

Row Halts Work

The work of the NRA consumers' board has been practically at a standstill since the Ogburn controversy began. A movement is under way to make Dr. Howe, who has had notable success in the AAA, more active in the NRA.

A price control board, whether set up through the consumers' boards or as a separate agency, would be able to ascertain what proportion of increased prices went to wages and salaries, what part went to meet increased costs of raw materials, what part to farmers for their products, if it were found that jumps in prices were more than enough to take care of these items, the firm or industry would be proceeded against on the ground that it was attempting to exact an exorbitant profit.

FARMERS BENEFIT IN ACREAGE CUT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Wheat farmers who reduce acreage under President Roosevelt's recovery program will receive cash without any reduction for governmental indebtedness, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced today.

Wheat growers will have about $100,000,000 coming to them from processing taxes. The legal department of the agricultural adjustment administration ruled that governmental liens on the wheat crop do no require deductions. Hence wheat checks will be issued directly to wheat farmers.

About $10,000,000 out of $110,000,000 going to cotton farmers for acreage reduction will be held up because of indebtedness to the government.

A legal distinction, said Wallace, between the cotton and wheat debts accounts for the difference in handling checks.

BUILDERS OF STATE ADOPT STRICT CODE

Compulsory Supervision

The code provides for compulsory supervision of all contracts in excess of $2500, excepting alteration not involving structural changes, by a licensed architect or engineer.

When an owner decides to build or remodel, he shall first decide whether he is going to let a general contract, segregated contract, guaranteed cost contract or percentage contract. Definite rules for bidding on each type of contract are set up in the code.

General contractors must allow 5 per cent in all figures for overhead and 10 per cent for profit, and incorporate wages for himself for his own time on the job. Material men are required to quote uniform prices and terms to all buyers. Speculative builders are to be subject to all regulations adopted by licensed general contractors.

Uniform Prices

Material men in each locality must quote the same prices, terms and conditions adopted by the majority of material men in the locality. Such schedule of prices, however, may be required to be approved by the chief of the division of corporations if it seems that such schedule is excessive or monopolistic.

Any violation of the provisions of the code can be cause for revocation or suspension of state license, in addition to other penalties prescribed by law.

COPS ECLIPSE MA HUBBARD

PALESTINE, Texas (UP)—Had Old Mother Hubbard accompanied officers in a raid that led to a flour cupboard in a Palestine home, the nursery rhyme would have required a different ending. The cupboard was by no means bare—it contained a couple of pints of whiskey.

WILL ROGERS says:

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 17.—(To the Editor of The Register:) Well, the old western polo boys got licked today. It now stands one game each and the finals Sunday. It was anybody's game for a long time, then our old cowpuncher, Rube Williams, got hurt. We got to try and get Eric Pedley, a crack player from the Coast, to come back here.

Well, all you hear back here is codes, "how do you think N. R. A. is going" and it's wonderful the way everyone seems to enter into it.

Yours,

SOVIET IS SELLING BOND ISSUE IN U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Without the benefit of ballyhoo or high-pressure salesmanship, Soviet Russia is successfully marketing an issue of $7,000,000 in gold bonds to the American public.

It was learned today that the bonds are being sold through the Soviet-American Securities company of which Miles Sherover is president. He predicted the entire issue would be distributed in three months.

"It was an experiment," he said, "and here in Wall Street it is considered a miracle. In less than a month we have sold a good part of the issue during a time when it would have been impossible to sell almost any other foreign government bond."

The largest subscription, Sherover said, was $50,000 and a large number of $25,000 purchases were made.

WOMAN TAKEN, MAN SHOT IN POLICE RAID

SILOAM SPRINGS, Ark., 17.—(UP)—A score of officers raided a farmhouse described as an outlaw hideout eight miles east of here early today, shot and critically wounded one man and captured a woman.

The man, identified as Gene Johnson, about 35, was brought to a hospital here, near death from a bullet wound in the head. His wife was shot through the arm, arrested and brought to jail. A second man escaped.

Armed with machine guns, the officers from two counties in Arkansas and one in Kansas surrounded the house. Finding it vacant, they waited.

Open Fire

An automobile approached. The officers called on its occupants to surrended. Instead they leaped from the car, the men firing. The one identified as Johnson went down. Shot, the woman surrendered.

The other man was trailed with bloodhounds brought from a nearby Missouri town.

In jail, the woman refused to talk. Officers said she had $120 in her purse, part of which was burned as if from an explosion in safebreaking.

Find Guns, Equipment

In the house, purchased August 4 from a real estate dealer, officers found guns, ammunition, hacksaw blades, saws, hammers and other equipment of outlawry.

Since the couple bought the house, they have been seen going to and from it at intervals.

Authorities said Johnson was wanted in Oklahoma on a murder charge, and was wanted in connection with several bank robberies in this section.

$250 LOOT TAKEN AT MARTIN HOME

More than $250 of clothing and jewelry was stolen from the home of E. C. Martin, 1176 East Chestnut avenue, sometime yesterday afternoon by a thief who used pruning shears to force open two doors and gain entrance to the home.

Police were called at 5:30 p. m. after members of the family returned and found their home ransacked. Included in the loot was three suits of clothes, two expensive dresses, black fox fur, three pairs of silk stockings, lingerie, gold watch, two sets of cuff links and two fountain pens.

Interpretation Of NRA Regulations For Barbers Given

Changes in interpretation of NRA regulations set the maximum working hours for barbers at 48 hours, it was declared today by A. H. Bauer, secretary of the barbers' union in Orange county.

It was ruled by General Hugh S. Johnson that no barber and no other employes can be employed more than 48 hours while no barber or beautician can employ any accounting, clerical or office employe more than 40 hours a week. In addition, no one under 16 years of age can be hired.

These maximum hours do not apply to those engaged in managerial or executive capacity, Bauer said. They do apply, however, to the owners or operators of barber shops or beauty shops who are actively working in the shops. Business hours must not go below 52 hours a week and patrons who enter the shop before the closing time must be served. If a shop was on less than 52 hours before July 1, 1933, no reduction will be allowed.

W. H. SPURGEON AGAIN ELECTED BY S. A. PLAYERS

William H. Spurgeon jr., who for the past two years has directed the destinies of Santa Ana Community Players' association, will again have the responsibility of the presidency, according to results of the election held by the governing board last night in the home of one of the number, Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson, 1522 North Broadway.

Officers elected to serve with Spurgeon were Mrs. Paul Bailey, vice president; Miss Constance Cruickshank, secretary; Homer Chaney, treasurer, and Frank Lansdown, business manager.

Second in importance only to the choice of officers, was the decision regarding program plans for the year. Those will include two major plays and the annual Spring Tournament of One-Act Plays, making the entertainment program for the year the same as last year.

Ways and means of financing the plays will be in charge of a committee composed of Homer Chaney, chairman, Sam Hurwitz and Miss Cruickshank. In connection with the program plans, a committee for submitting recommendations for a director was named to include Arthur Collins, chairman, Mrs. Bailey, Frank Lansdown and Sam Hurwitz.

Informal monthly programs of the association will be resumed on Thursday night, September 7, at The Barn on Mabury street, and will continue to be held at the first Thursday night of each month throughout the year. In the meantime the association is again presenting a contest for original one-act plays to which all writers in the community are invited to contribute.

REGENERATION HELD BASIS OF U. S. RECOVERY

The primary need of the world today is moral and spiritual regeneration as the essential basis of economic recovery, according to Harry V. Adams, of the speakers bureau of the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, in quoting a statement made at the American Bankers convention when he spoke to members of Santa Ana Kiwanis club yesterday noon in Ketner's cafe.

Adams said the bankers had stated that until the nations of the world are willing to liquidate their hates, they can make little progress toward liquidating their debts.

In his address, Adams said, in part:

"It has never been the great crowd—the common people—who have stirred up hate and fear, for these do not by nature hate and fear their fellows.

"The trouble breeders are always found in the ranks of the extremists. They are forever stirring up hate and fear as between nations, and animosity and strife as between sections, classes and groups.

"These extremists are prophets of evil in the political, economic and social spheres, because they have eyes only for the destructive forces and therefore fail to see the great constructive forces which are much more powerful but less spectacular in their workings.

"Being prophets of impending calamity, both the extreme conservative and the extreme radical are united in the view that the present is distressingly evil and holds almost no promise of good.

"The great crowd knows that always, the truth lies somewhere between the extremes of radicalism and conservatism, and refuses to be led into dangerous situations by either party."

FOUR COUNTY ROAD JOBS IN STATE BUDGET

projects received more than twice as much money under the new state budget. Riverside county was allocated $1,256,575 for 10 projects that include the improvement and realignment of the famous Jack Rabbit trail, $650,000; the removal of the dangerous dips on Highway 99 south of Banning, $100,000; and the 12½ mile extension easterly from state highway 64 at Indio, $200,000.

San Diego Allotment

San Diego county is allocated $1,088,000 for five projects, including grading and paving on 16.4 miles of the coast highway from Del Mar to Oceanside, $535,000; bridge over Santa Margarita creek, $200,000; grading and paving 10 miles between San Ysidro and National City on the route between San Diego and the Mexican border, $285,000.

More than $10,000,000 worth of work will begin in October and additional projects will be launched thereafter as soon as possible. The policy to speed up work was announced today by Earl Kelly, director of the department of public works. Because of legislative limitations, specifications for the new projects will not be sent out until August 21.

Included in the total to be expended on construction is approximately $16,000,000 federal money. Contracts in which this sum figures will be drawn under the rules and regulations set down by the federal government and which provide for the employment of veterans with dependents and for a 30-hour week for laborers. These will be selected by state employment bureaus in localities where there are such, or by reemployment committees established in zones where there are no bureaus.

Other Awards

Nine counties will receive more than $1,000,000 each for road work. Los Angeles county heads the list with $3,643,000 because of its heavy motor vehicle registration, and necessity for caring for the tremendous pressure of traffic in its area. San Francisco is second with a total of $2,250,000.

The budget has received the approval of Governor James Rolph jr., and is the result of many weeks of intensive study by the state highway commission. The commission, consisting of Harry A. Hopkins, Taft, chairman; Phillip A. Stanton, Anaheim, Frank A. Tetley, Riverside, Timothy A. Reardon, San Francisco, and Dr. W. W. Barham, Yreka, sitting with Director Kelly, held many open meetings.

The budget allocations include projects of state wide interest. In Alameda county, $1,650,000 will be expended on approaches to the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge. Grading and surfacing of the Yosemite National park road, via Wawona and the park tunnel will cost $150,000 and a similar amount will be used on the improvement of the Mustang grade in Fresno and Monterey counties. The coast route between Santa Barbara and San Marcus pass will be shortened at a cost of $500,000.

being formulated by the NRA are receiving increasing attention, with the issue brought out sharply in the oil and lumber industries. It was understood some form of price fixing would be provided for in both these codes.

Problem Serious

The seriousness of the price problem in relation to wages was brought out when the department of labor's bureau of labor statistics reported that wholesale prices in July increased almost as much as payrolls. The payroll index showed a gain of 7.9 per cent for July over June. There was an increase of 6 per cent in the wholesale commodity index. During the first two weeks of August the wholesale commodity index increased further, from 69.2 to 69.4.

Prices of textile products from an industry now operating under an NRA code increased from 68.4 on July 29 to 72.9 on Aug. 12, a proportionately greater advance than in other prices.

BANDIT SHOOTS NOTED EDITOR, HIS COMPANION

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—(UP)—A life of blindness today threatened a middle-aged woman who was shot through the head late last night by a hair-triggered bandit.

The single bullet after passing through the head of Miss Cora Withington, 49, struck Crombie Allen, former president of the California Newspaper Publishers' association, inflicting a flesh wound in the neck. Miss Withington's condition was critical. Surgeons said she may be permanently blinded.

Allen, a prominent retired Southern California publisher, and Miss Withington were riding when their car was forced to the curb by another machine, driven by a young woman. Her accomplice ordered the couple to hand over their valuables. Miss Withington reached for her purse but her hand caught in the folds of her dress. Mistaking her movement, the bandit fired. He wrenched a wrist watch from Allen's arm and fled. Allen drove his companion to St. Vincent's hospital.

Allen was formerly publisher of the Ontario (Calif.) Reporter. Noted for his wit, he is one of the most prominent after-dinner speakers in Southern California.

TAX RATE FOR LAGUNA BEACH SET AT $1.07

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 17.—Without adopting a budget, which is to be taken up at an adjourned meeting, August 22, the city council Wednesday night passed to third reading an emergency ordinance fixing the tax rate at $1.07 to cover city expenditures and interest and redemption of the fire hall bonds.

The total amount required, under the ordinance, is $31,274.60, as compared to $34,761.90 last year, when the total tax rate was $1.08. The assessed valuation of Laguna Beach for the coming tax year, according to figures submitted by County Auditor W. T. Lambert, is $2,922,860. Last year it was $3,218,695. The total amount raised by taxation last year included an assessment against property owners in Arch Beach for the proposed water system.

Councilman C. R. Clapp, park commissioner, was appointed as a committee of one by Mayor Frank B. Champion to confer with the shade tree committee of the Garden club in reference to a communication from Dr. Thomas Spencer Miller, a member of the shade tree committee, requesting that a shade tree and park commission be authorized by the council, with powers to control the selection and planting of shade trees in Laguna Beach.

Councilman J. E. Bishop raised the question of the right of the council to delegate its powers to such a commission. City Attorney Milburn G. Harvey gave the opinion that the council could delegate administrative powers to a park board.

A copy of the proposed county-wide handbill ordinance was tabled after Harvey told the county that the matter was to come up for discussion at the meeting of the league to be held in Laguna Beach August 24, and that it was hoped the several councils would adopt it at about the same time.

A certified copy of the judgment of $7399.76 obtained by former City Engineer A. J. Stead against the city, was received and filed.

A communication from Mrs. Marie B. Garth, asking $500 compensation because of a broken shoulder sustained when she fell on a sidewalk on Coast Boulevard was referred to the city attorney for possible compromise.

H. L. Mayland of the Home Ice and Cold Storage company, Santa Ana, was granted a beer distributor's license.

Councilman M. B. McMillan, police commissioner, was appointed a committee of one by the Laguna Beach city council Wednesday night to confer with Sheriff Logan Jackson in reference to the county official's proposal for a county-wide broadcasting system to aid the transmission of police information. The matter came up on a communication from Sheriff Jackson asking for an opinion of the council.

Mayor Frank B. Champion said it was a worthwhile proposal if the cost was not too great to the city. Councilman C. R. Clapp, J. E. Bishop, George W. Wilson and McMillan all expressed themselves as being in favor of the plan if the financial obligation is not too heavy on the city.

Mrs. Cribaro's Peaches At Head Of List

When a little yarn was printed in The Register this week about Santa Ana peaches that weighed a pound and were 12 inches in circumference, it started something.

The second installment of the peach story is printed today, following a visit to the editorial rooms this morning by Mrs. Dick Cribaro, 439 South Sycamore. Presenting a market basket for approval, she proudly displayed five peaches that filled it. Mrs. Cribaro's largest peach weighed 20 ounces and was 14 inches in circumference.

The Alberta tree from which they came is 18 years old and bears every other year she said and most of the peaches weigh a pound. Much to the delight of the scriveners, the peaches were donated to the staff.

PROGRAM AND DINNER HELD IN BEACH CITY

The dinner was an old fashioned chicken dinner, served on tables covered with old time turkey red table cloths, decorated with old fashioned garden flowers, and served by women in costumes of olden times. Dinner was served to over 150 people.

Following the dinner an elaborate program, including plays, songs, and instrumental music was rendered. A one-act play, "Castles in Spain," was given by Lucile Meyers, Ruth Henthorn, Julia Fischer and Elmore Hayden. Mrs .Friend and Lemon left for Yuma at 4 o'clock this morning, being accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Eckels, of San Diego.

PENNEY STORE EMPLOYES GET SALARY BOOST

Affecting the entire store personnel, a blanket pay increase of five per cent, the first planned of a series to be made as conditions get better, was announced today for J. C. Penney company employes in Santa Ana by F. A. Jones, store manager.

"This increase is made in compliance with the spirit of the president's recovery program and is effective as of August 1," Jones said.

More than 20 employes are affected by the salary boost.

"This increase is given regardless of the fact that not a single salary has been cut for two and a half years of the past depression," the store manager continued. He also announced that since inauguration of the NRA program four new regular men and seven regular and part time saleswomen have been employed by the Santa Ana store and that all are working on a 40-hour week schedule.

"This is the time for the fullest cooperation between employer, employes and consumer," Jones declared. "The employer must take the lead and increase wages in order to increase purchasing power.

"The employe must quicken his step and double his efforts of the past if his job and employer under the new code are to continue, in the battle to lick the depression. The keen, alert, and aggressive young business man or woman have the greatest opportunity of their lifetime for advancement if they will only apply themselves in keeping with the fast change of pace we are now entering. The consumer can do his part by buying now and helping the employer in most cases over even a rougher road than we traveled during the depression days and at the same time buy merchandise cheaper than 30 or even 15 days from now.

"This is a more serious battle than most people think, a battle real American people must work together 100 per cent and win. It can, will, and must be done, in order to save this grand country of ours."

Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, yesterday called an election in the Laguna school district. A petition signed by question of forming a new high school district. After the petition had been checked and it was found there were about 50 signatures to spare, the election was called. It will be advertised August 18, 25 and September 1.

The filing of the petition followed soon after the board of trustees of the Tustin Union High school had asked the board of supervisors to annex the Laguna district to Tustin. Action was deferred for a week at the request of Superintendent Adkinson.

FATHER SEEKS CUSTODY OF FOUR CHILDREN

A stipulation was filed in superior court today allowing orders to show cause filed by both Wallace Harbottle, Anaheim healer, and his former wife, now Mrs. Edna A. Schnell, to be heard at the same time tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m.

Both parents of the four Harbottle children are seeking custody of the children following an annulment action won by Harbottle on the grounds that his former wife was already married to a Canadian.

In an order to show cause and a restraining order filed by Harbottle's attorney, he sought to prevent his former wife from taking the children out of Los Angeles county where they now live with the former Mrs. Harbottle and her new husband. He charged that his former wife was not fit to have the custody of the children and that the place they are living in is not a fit home and that he is able to and is willing to provide them with a fit home.

Harbottle charged that the children are sleeping in a place screened in with gunny sacks and that bugs crawl on the children at night so that they cannot sleep properly. He charged also that Julius Schell struck two of the children.

Mrs. Schnell, formerly Mrs. Harbottle, is seeking to restrain her husband from seeing the children and seeks permission to take them in a contemplated move from Glendale to Santa Paula.

America Once Was Too 'Red' For Russia

This is the first of three stories on Recognition of Russia and how the United States worked 33 years to get recognition from mighty Russia in days when the shoe was on the other feet.

BY WILLIS THORNTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Early on the cold gray morning of February 27, 1918, a man stepped from the ornate stone doorway of the American embassy in Petrograd. Luggage and official papers piled high above him, he was whisked over the almost-deserted cobblestone streets to a railway station to begin a tiresome journey of 26 hours to Vologda.

He was David R. Francis, last American ambassador to Russia. And in more than 15 years that have passed since that morning, no official American ambassador has entered the capital of the great country of 160,000,000 people that was then Russia, and is today the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Fifteen years is a long time. Russia has changed. The United States has changed. The world has changed. And now there are daily indications that the breach may soon be healed, the long list of mutual misunderstandings cleared up, and normal diplomatic relations at last resumed.

Vast Trade at Stake

A commission of 40 Soviet experts is about to embark for the United States to study the market for future purchases of cotton, industrial and railroad equipment, aviation supplies, automobiles and machinery. The world is competing for those orders, and the United States today is the only great power that does not have normal diplomatic channels through which to deal. Spain, recently recognizing Russia, had been the last, except ourselves, to stand aloof.

Foreign Minister Litvinoff, of Russia recently sojourned at a French health resort, and it conveniently happened that Bernard Baruch, American financier known to be close to President Roosevelt, stopped in on the same resort, also for his health. There were denials that anything was done, but much has come from less in international affairs.

* * *

Stage Set for Recognition

Many European countries concluded agreements of various kinds with Russia during the recent London conference, and American delegates had free but informal discussions with the Russians.

England, after a recent clash with the Soviet government over imprisonment of several British engineers, has hastily patched up the matter. Non-aggression pacts have been signed recently by the Soviets with many neighboring nations. Soviet Russia is known to be in the market for certain badly-needed manufactured goods of a kind which America is best able to supply.

America already has former Senator Smith W. Brookhart studying the possibilities of Russian trade, and he is in close touch with Amtorg, the Soviet trade agency in this country. A $4,000,000 R. F. C. loan has only recently been made to the Soviets to enable them to buy American cotton, and other loans are in prospect.

While President Roosevelt has not definitely committed himself, it is generally believed that he is more inclined to favor recognition than have the past two or three administrations. Never, perhaps, since 1918, has the stage been so favorably set as today for the formal recognition of Russia.

* * *

Shoe on Other Foot

Fifteen years is a long time, but not so long by half as the 33 years from 1776 to 1809, during which the American revolution knocked in vain at the door of the proud Russia of Catharine the Great. The shoe was on the other foot then.

Under Catharine, the Russian court was a hot-bed of intrigue, luxury, cruel autocracy and political reaction. Monarchs of the world were leagued together to prevent the spread of "American radicalism."

It was not until 1781 that Francis Dana, a brilliant constitutional lawyer, was sent to St. Petersburg to angle, unofficially, for recognition. He cooled his heels for nearly two years, but never got the slightest encouragement. Even some of his mail was returned to the United States stamped "unknown." The Russian government wouldn't even deliver his mail, so studiously did it ignore the American. A little later Joel Poinsett, an American world traveler who had many friends among the royalty of Europe, also angled unofficially for recognition through Alexander I, with whom he was on friendly terms.

But though Poinsett achieved a certain personal recognition, it was not until 1809, three years later, that Russia received John Quincy Adams as the first official minister from the United States. Adams later was the sixth president.

* * *

Friendly During Civil War

Adams was a citizen of the world, and had traveled widely since he had been a child. He was not, therefore, overawed by the elaborate ceremonies that made the Russian court the proudest in Europe. By 1812 Russia had grown friendly enough to offer to mediate between Britain and America after the War of 1812.

At first, American ministers were very small fry in the diplomatic corps at St. Petersburg. But during the ministries of Cassius M. Clay and Bayard Taylor Russia was friendly enough to offer help to the Union side during the Civil war, and actually sent two fleets to the United States to help the Union in case England and France sided with the South. There was a wave of enthusiasm for Russia following this, and shortly thereafter Alaska was bought from Russia for $7,200,000.

By 1905, the American ambassador, George von L. Meyer, had become one of the most influential men in St. Petersburg. It is believed he had a great influence in persuading the Czar to abandon the disastrous Russo-Japanese war, and in arranging the peace negotiations for President Theodore Roosevelt. Meyer achieved a diplomatic victory.

Francis Last Envoy

When the World war had already dragged through two years, David R. Francis was sent to Petrograd as American ambassador. Russia had changed the Germanic name of St. Petersburg to the Russian Petrograd when the war broke.

Francis faced a great deal of hard work, and many difficulties. America was even then conducting vast Red Cross and relief works in Russia. There was the increasingly-difficult status of American neutrality to maintain. And already a mighty rumbling could be heard beneath the surface of Holy Russia.

Francis' stay, though he did not know it, was to be a short one.

NEXT: America is first to recognize the Russian revolution, but breaks off relations when a second revolution by the Bolsheviki seizes power.

Resignation Of Teacher Accepted

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 17.—Resignation of Verne Harrison, who signed with the local Westminster school board as teacher of music for this term, was accepted at a school board meeting held Tuesday evening. Mr. Harrison requested that his resignation be accepted as he has decided to attend school this year. In the interest of economy the board voted not to have a music department the coming term. Harrison taught orchestra in the local school last term.

Two substitute teachers, Mrs. Russell I. Johnson, substitute last term, and Mrs. B. B. Brown, a former teacher in the school, were elected at the meeting.

STATE HIGHWAY HEADS CHECK ROAD ROUTES

With the state taking over the 200 miles of county roads and through city streets in Orange county for maintenance on August 22, a group of officials from the highway division of the state was in Orange county yesterday, looking over various roads and discussing routing of the secondary highway road from Yorba Linda to Newport Beach.

Following a conference with a group of Olive citizens, the officials left for San Diego, where similar surveys were scheduled to be made.

The group here included Earl E. Kelly, director of public works, P. A. Stanton of Anaheim, state highway commissioner; G. T. McCoy, assistant chief state highway engineer; S. V. Cortelyou, division engineer; Nat H. Neff, county road superintendent, Willard Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors and Senator N. T. Edwards, of Orange.

The group discussed realignment of the main intersection at Olive, now considered dangerous. The intersection will be opened up to make it safer, according to plans discussed.

While no definite decision was reached, discussion was held on the routing of the secondary road from Yorba Linda to Newport road, which, according to Willard Smith, has been routed through Orange via Glassell street. The definite route of the road will be left to state engineers, according to Superintendent Neff. In the past, efforts had been made to route the secondary highway via Tustin avenue.

SIXTH SERVICE STATION THEFT REPORTED HERE

For the third time in two years, the Firestone Service, at First and Main streets, was robbed last night, the robbery happening while the attendant was waiting on customers. It is the sixth service station loss in the last several months in Santa Ana.

An amount believed to be about $10 was stolen by the thief, who opened the cash register in the office of the stock room while Art Kistler, operator, was in the front of the building with a customer. The suspect had rung up $70.08 to open the register, police discovered, and had taken advantage of other noises to muffle the sound of the cash drawer bell.

Kistler rang up a sale at 6:20 p. m., and did not notice the robbery until nearly 7:30, he told police. Other stations robbed in recent weeks includes ones at Seventeenth and Broadway, Washington and Main, Second and Main, Sixth and Sycamore and West First street and Santa Ana river.

The Firestone Service was robbed about two months ago of a small amount, and again about two years ago of more than $100, police stated.

U. S. FUNDS FOR RELIEF WORK EXPECTED SOON

Federal appropriations for work relief programs in Orange county are expected to arrive here in the near future, it was announced today by Chairman Willard Smith of the board of supervisors following a conference of chairmen of boards of supervisors from all counties in Southern California with R. C. Branion, administrator of federal relief money, at Los Angeles.

Orange county is expected to receive one-third of the money spent by the board of supervisors in keeping up the relief work and to be reimbursed to that extent for money spent during last month and this month. Th state is supposed to supply an additional third of the money spent for relief work by the county.

Chairman Smith said that it was learned that state money will not arrive before October 10. This money will come from the $20,000,000 bond issue voted by the people of the state at the last election for unemployment relief.

The board of supervisors will continue to fill the breach made by lack of state and feredal money next month by supplying the needed amount, Chairman Smith said. "I see nothing else for us to do," he declared.

Last month the supervisors appropriated $70,000 for relief work here, and it is expected that Welfare Director B. V. Curry will need a sum somewhat in similar proportion this month. What the need will be next month is hard to determine, Curry said, because of the seasonal employment angle.

ROTARIANS PLANNING BIG COUNTY PICNIC

The Presidents and Secretaries Council of Orange County Rotary clubs met last night at the White House cafe in Laguna Beach for their monthly study of Rotary problems and work. Most of the evening was devoted to plans for the county-wide Rotary picnic to be held at Anaheim City park on August 31, when all Rotarians and their families will assemble for a great social and inspirational event. The several Rotary clubs in the county will omit their regular meetings during that week, and will concentrate attendance at the picnic.

Boys' work came up for consideration through the presentation by Scout Executive Harrison White of some of the problems confronting workers with youth in the present circumstances. Plans are to be made for additional support from the Rotary clubs for the work being carried on throughout the county by the organization engaged in character building for the boys.

Expect Jernigan To Make Race for Sheriff's Post

The probability that Sam Jernigan, former sheriff of Orange county, will throw his hat in the ring as a candidate for sheriff at the election in August, 1934, was learned today.

Friends of the former sheriff, it was learned, have approached him with the request that he run again at the election next year. Jernigan said that if enough support were assured him he would enter the race.

Jernigan was defeated in the 1930 election for sheriff by Logan Jackson, who, it is believed, will seek relection to his present office.

GETS JAIL TERM ON FEED THEFT CHARGES

Charles R. Luster, 26, Los Angeles oil worker and suspecting of defrauding feed merchants in several Southern California cities, was sentenced to pay $100 or serve 50 days in the county jail yesterday on petty theft charges at Fullerton and elected to take the jail term.

Luster is awaiting a hearing in the Santa Ana justice court on similar charges arising from the defrauding of the Santa Ana Mills of $12.55 of feed. He will appear on August 24.

Leon Solomon, her husband, was forced to drive off Lincoln boulevard near Moody street when meeting approaching cars and crashed into a parked truck owned by C. M. Dohm, 34, R. D. 1, Buena Park. Mrs. Solomon was later removed to her home after her injuries, sustained when she was thrown into the windshield, were treated.

COURT DENIES DISMISSAL OF LIQUOR CASE

With the prosecution scoring a victory in refueal of the court to dismiss charges of possession of liquor against Richard O. Farrell, a jury was selected this morning to hear evidence in the Santa Ana police court before Judge J. G. Mitchell.

Farrell was arrested by Santa Ana police officers on August 5 at his home, 2005 South Main street, and charged with possession when one gallon of liquor was found. He is represented in court by Attorney Dave Wettlin while City Attorney Clyde Downing is conducting the prosecution.

Wettlin opened proceedings by making a motion for dismissal on grounds that Farrell had not violated a city ordinance in having liquor in his home. Judge Mitchell denied his plea, ruling that one ordinance now in effect prohibited the possession of liquor with more than 3.2 per cent alcoholic content without a lawful permit.

After the motion was denied, a jury was sworn in to decide the guilt of the defendant. Downing finished his prosecution before the noon recess and Wettlin was scheduled to end his defense this afternoon.

VIRGINIA SHAW BECOMES BRIDE OF VENTURA MAN

FULLERTON, Aug. 17.—Beautiful in its simplicity was the wedding last night of Miss Virginia Ann Shaw to Joe Pearson Critchfield, performed at the home of the bride, North Berkeley avenue, Fullerton, before a group of close friends and relatives of the young couple.

The occasion marked the 40th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Shaw, who were wedded on Wednesday evening, August 17, 1883, at Perry, Mich., and the ceremony, as well as the reception that followed, carried many little remembrances of the first wedding.

Miss Shaw was gowned in a formal lace evening frock of delicate salmon shading and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. Her shoes matched her gown and she wore no veil. Carried in her hand was an old handkerchief, given her by her grandmother, the late Mrs. O. E. Shaw of Santa Ana, who had requested that she carry it at her wedding.

Single Ring Ceremony

The single ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Carl Patchel of Laguna Beach, who was pastor of the first church attended by the bride's parents after their wedding, and to whom the bride gave a promise, when she was eight years old, that she would call on him to read her wedding ceremony.

Attending the bride was Miss Marguerite Kroeger of Fullerton, first roommate of the bride at U. C. L. A., who wore a formal gown, with a short jacket of blue crepe and blue shoes to match, and who carried a lovely bouquet of gladioluses, roses and delphinium. A wee flower girl, Betty Jean Keyes, of Ventura, a small pupil of the bride last year, clad in a green silk dress, with flowered scallops, carried a basket of Cecil Bruner roses as she preceded the bride's party to the altar. Dixie Hood of Alhambra, a friend of long standing of the bridegroom, attended Mr. Critchfield.

Altar of Fern, Lilies

The wedding party assembled before an altar of green fern and lilies, erected in the corner of the living room. The beautiful background was flanked by two enormous baskets of gladioluses in shades of orchid and salmon pink, with sprays of blue delphinium, and on the mantel at the left of the altar was a large candelabra.

Bud Wagner played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, by Wagner, as the processional. Miss Marcelina Arrous played "Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life" as a violin solo, and sang "I Love You Truly," preceding the ceremony, with Mr. Wagner at the piano.

At the reception that followed, the bride's cake and the groom's cake, both cut with the same cake knife used by Mr. and Mrs. Shaw at their wedding and engraved with the date of that wedding, were served by a group of special friends of the bride. All were dressed in semi-formal afternoon frocks of pastel shades. Miss Vera Stull was in charge. Others serving were Miss Mildred Walker, Fullerton; Mrs. Maynard Beard (Ione Wagner) and Miss Alma King of Whittier; Miss Mary Ella Poor of Santa Ana and Miss Doris Griffith of Riverside. Each wore a corsage, a gift of the bride, of sweet peas and roses. Mrs. Shaw, the bride's mother, and Mrs. Earl Dunbar, sister of the bridegroom, also wore corsages of gardenias.

Home in Ventura

Attending Fullerton schools and graduating from the Fullerton District Junior college, Miss Shaw was then graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles. She was a member of the Delta Zeta sorority. The bridegroom was educated at Shreve, Ohio, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Critchfield, live, and is now connected with the Industrial Fuel company of Ventura. The young couple will reside at Ventura, where she will teach one more year in the kindergarten.

Immediately following the ceremony, they started a motor trip, with the bride dressed in a smart brown and white print and brown hat and shoes and a white Russian coat.

Others invited to the wedding and reception besides the bridal party, and those who have been named, were Mrs. Mayremnie Shaw, Santa Ana; Gerald Shaw, a brother of the bride, San Diego; John Finley, Ventura; Mrs. J. H. Trezise, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Culp, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butler, Mrs. Sangster, Ralph Culp, Harry Robinson, Mrs. Eleanor Culp, Frank del Georgio, Vincent McElheny, Jimmy Grieves, Tom McElheny, H. H. Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Trezise and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Harris, Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Keyes, Ventura; Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Kinsman, and Miss Jean Kinsman and Given and Bob Powers, Yorba Linda; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Fisher and Mr. Bonney and Mr. Robert Roberts, Anaheim; Miss Dorothy Watson, Miss Marjorie Watson, Los Angeles; Miss Dorothy Lindsey, Santa Ana; Miss Mary Cast, Mecca, and Miss Evelyn Cook, Santa Monica. The last six young women are sorority sisters.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

DRIVE

Congress isn't in session.

If the forum were open on Capitol Hill their jobs would be a lot tougher—if that is possible. As it is, Ickes and Johnson are enabled to pursue their weary ways without plowing through the welter of critical words that would be their lot if the Honorables were meeting.

One would almost think from the way they are pushing on that our two New Deal leaders are trying to get things all cleaned up and locked away before Congress reconvenes.

• • •

ROUGHHOUSE

Sooner or later both gentlemen undoubtedly will tangle with Capitol Hill.

You can't dispense $3,300,000,000 of public money and inspire boycotts where the Blue Eagle fails to fly without treading on a lot of toes.

Quite a few members of Congress probably will come back here next January foaming at the mouth and demanding the life blood of Ickes and Johnson. And Congress won't be anywhere near as docile when it returns as it was while jumping through the hoops President Roosevelt held from March to June.

The boys are now back home. Republicans have been getting a load of poison for distribution at the first sign the administration might be faltering. Democrats in some localities are being fed a good dose of insidious propaganda by interests that think they ain't been done right by.

• • •

It will be a sight to warm the cockles of the heart when Messrs. Ickes and Johnson collide with the wise guys of Congress.

Both of them are very sturdy gentlemen.

Ickes has been fighting for lost causes for years as a Progressive. Now at last he's on a bandwagon that seems to have balloon tires. It will take an awful lot of sharpshooting to knock him down. . . . ..And remember how former Vice President Dawes won his nickname of "Hell 'n' Maria"? His wartime buddy, General Johnson, is the same type.

• • •

Secretary Ickes is going hot after the smart chiselers who would like to turn a few technically-honest-only pennies from public works.

His recent pronouncement that any evidence of speculative attempts to profit privately by land deals in slum rehabilitation would automatically kill a proposal was meant in deadly earnest. When he said he had confidential information that speculators have been acquiring options on key plots in city slums, Ickes was talking turkey.

He has the goods on several smart men.

• • •

Louis R. Glavis, chief of the Interior Department Bureau of Investigations, has turned his agents loose in all the cities represented by the 30-odd bids for public money to finance low-cost housing programs.

For example, in New York City they have unearthed deals wherein speculators have taken six-month options on East Side property. Because the city originally tried to get money for slum rehabilitation from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation "smart money" knew where to tie up land.

The options cost comparatively nothing. The holders figured to cash in heavily. They won't lose much, but they'll lose. Ickes is going to take his cheap apartment houses 'way uptown somewhere.

And the same system will apply in every other city where the government can't acquire land at proper cost.

CLEAVAGE

When Dr. H. C. Taylor sails for Rome next month to represent the United States at the International Institute of Agriculture he won't find any bon voyage messages from former President Hoover.

Taylor's appointment to this $5,000 job on the clearing house for world agricultural statistics has an interesting story back of it.

At the time Mr. Hoover was Secretary of Commerce Dr. Taylor was chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

• • •

Mr. Hoover wanted to transfer the Foreign Crop Reporting Board from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Commerce.

Taylor protested vigorously. He enlisted the then Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace in the fight.

This was the beginning of the cleavage between Mr. Hoover and the farm interests.

• • •

Mr. Hoover's inroads on the Agricultural Department were a source of major grievance for Henry C. Wallace.

When he died in office his friends said it had a bearing on his passing. His son, Henry A. Wallace, deserted the Republican Party at the time.

This son is now Secretary of Agriculture in President Roosevelt's Cabinet.

• • •

SMOOTH

Robert Fechner, General of the Forest Army, quit school in the fifth grade at the age of 15 to become an apprentice machinist.

He spent ten or fifteen years as a "boomer" - which means he hoboed from place to place working the trade. In that time he worked all over Central and South America as well as the States. Then he settled down to become Vice President of the International Machinists' Union.

But ask any of the stenographers who take his dictation. They say it's easier and smoother than any they've ever transcribed.

NOTES

A caller rushed into Secretary Ickes' office the other day and protested vigorously about the "employees" he had just noticed playing cards. . . . The caller had passed the press room. . . A few minutes later Ickes had a press conference and the newspaper man asked for a larger press room "so two pitch games could go on without interfering with anyone's work" . . . They got a larger room. . . If you listen to those on the inside they laugh at you for marveling at the ideas put forth by the Brain Trust. . . They say it isn't the ideas accepted that should awe one but the ones that have been rejected.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

CUBA

Smart people, these British.

They were perfectly correct diplomatically in urging us to protect their nationals in Cuba. We have a Monroe Doctrine and a Platt Amendment. If we fail to intervene and any Britisher gets hurt they have a legitimate cause to squawk.

You may have heard that we are trying hard to build up trade relations with Latin America. We have a nice little commercial battle on with England in Argentina and at the moment we are gaining. Now will any bright little boy or girl tell the class what will happen to our Latin American trade if we intervene in Cuba? If you don't think England is well aware of the answer you don't know John Bull.

As one New Yorker puts it: "Britian will be happy to cooperate to help us lose our South American business."

And it's done without mirrors, too.

STERLING

Financial circles hear that Britain is pushing plans for development of Empire paper currencies into a sterling union. This union would be open to other nations if they agreed to share its obligations and responsibilities. British financiers seek an ace in the hole in case international agreement on a reformed gold standard shouldn't come about as soon as desired. And they will be out front if managed currencies win the world.

GOLD

Some of the boys are whooping it up for a one-way gold market. This would mean that gold could be bought but not sold. It would be an enormous help to American gold miners and their stockholders —several influential Wall Streeters among them. Experts say it would not help anyone else, but perhaps that isn't necessary.

The gold people are pretty restive about the government's delay in giving them relief. They thought something would happen before now to enable them to sell at world prices.

There is some talk of getting a mandamus against the government for exports from the mines unless a market is created here. The government wouldn't care for legal proceedings on the subject. So insiders say that some form of restricted market has a good chance.

FINANCING

The success of the August financing has left the Treasury sitting pretty. It could pay off its September maturities out of cash over and above such September securities as may be exchanged for the current issue. Local sound money advocates have been dinning it into Washington's ears that absence of inflation talk made the big over-subscription possible.

New York bankers would not be surprised if a conversion issue were offered in October to lighten the interest charges on the Liberty 4 1-2s.

Roosevelt has been leery of baby bonds because they flopped under Hoover. They may come thick and fast later if analysis shows that the public did more than nibble at $50 allotments in the recent issue.

REVALUATION

Experts point out that the Treasury would make nice profit out of dollar revaluation. Cutting the grains from 22 to 16 would give a surplus of 6 grains for each dollar outstanding. That would be enough to amortize public works expenditures without issuing paper currency. This is one reason why we may get revaluation when the leaves start falling. Insiders are hopeful it would lead to tax reduction next year.

HITLER

Sosthenes Behn of the National City Bank and International Tel. and Tel. visited Hitler recently at the latter's mountain retreat in Bavaria. This is the first time anyone outside of his three most intimate friends has been permitted to intrude.

How come Germany needs cash. 'Sport" and "Labor" organizations - the Germans resent the term "military" - are very costly and revenues have fallen off badly.

Germay cannot get foreign credits and domestic financing is out of the question.

The only way left to get cash quickly is by granting monoplies. International Tel. and Tel. is in a position to make a hansome loan in return for the German telephone monopoly.

Of course J. P. Morgan and Co. could hardly finance Germany directly under present conditions.

Mussolini has a system all his own for financing public works. He gets the people to deposit their savings in the Postal Banks. Then he takes the cash and gives them government securities instead. They just have to like it.

THIEF GETS $35

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 17.—Thirty-five dollars in cash was stolen from a purse which Miss Hazel Thrasher, Santa Clara avenue, Santa Ana, left on a table in her apartment at 3808 Seashore drive yesterday, according to report made by Miss Thrasher at police headquarters.

ARRANGE PLANS FOR LABOR DAY SWIM AT BEACH

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 17.—Plans for the second annual Newport-Balboa rough-water swim, scheduled for Labor day, to Balboa in the ocean, were made last night at a meeting of the Newport Harbor Chamber of commerce, which is sponsoring the event. George P. Wilson was named as head of the committee to handle the program. Those assisting him are Irvin George Gordon, Harry H. Williamson, Frank Crocker and Ralph Reed, athletic coach of the Newport Harbor Union High school. The swim will be from Newport to Balboa, in the ocean.

The program will include two races, one open to all and one for amateurs only. Cash prizes will be given to the first three to finish in the open division. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be given to men, and the same for women in the amateur classes.

At the suggestion of Harry Williamson, chairman of the Tournament of Lights committee, it was decided to postpone to a later date the Girl-of-Charm contest, which was planned in connection with the annual Lights event. It was stated that some of the entrants wished to appear in bathing suits, while others refused to do so. A suggestion was made that the event be postponed until about a month before the 1934 Tournament of Lights.

A letter to the chamber from John R. Lyons of the Claremont Community camp, which has a number of young members summering here, asked for the removal of certain old concrete piers from in front of their camp on the Bay Front in Balboa. He also asked for more police on Saturday nights. The letter was referred by the chamber directors to the city council.

The chamber decided to contribute to a fund which is being raised to assist Hook Beardsley and Tom Webster, representatives of the Newport Harbor Star fleet, who will appear in the annual international starboat regatta being held in Long Beach this month.

Man Burned As Hot Tar Upset

LA HABRA, Aug. 17.—Paul Reimann was making repairs to the roof of the Nazarene church on East Central avenue Tuesday afternoon, when a bucket of hot tar was accidentally overturned, starting a fire at the rear of the church building and seriously burning Reimann about the legs and hands.

The fire department was called to the scene and extinguished the flames.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS :-: By Laufer

One thousand three hundred and eight consecutive games! With the completion of that eighth game, today, the old larruper, Lou Gehrig, the big, bruising, belting first-sacker of the Yankees broke little Everett "Deacon" Scott's record. . . . Scott, the frail little shortstop of the Red Sox, who started his string of 1307 games with Boston in 1916, and finished with the Yanks in 1922. . . . Boils nearly stopped Scotty's string . . . he had one on his eye one day and didn't go near the ball park . . . and it rained so hard that the game had to be called off, saving his chances. . . . He played a series in Chicago with four yards of bandage around a boil on his throat. . . . Waite Hoyt nearly stopped the string, too . . . heaved a wild one in batting practice that caught Scott behind the head and laid him out until game-time. . . . Missing a train in Indiana nearly cost "Deacon" his honors. . . . The team was playing in Chicago and Scotty had to spend $42 for taxi fare in order to get to the ball park in time to play part of the game.

Then little Joey Sewell. . . . Joe played 1102 consecutive games with Cleveland before the management, in view of an attack of tonsilitis, lumbago and ingrown toenails, which threatened to ruin his career if he didn't lay off for a spell, stepped in and stopped him. . . . At that Joe set a record for consecutive games with one club.

Now Gehrig . . . built in direct contrast to the two little fellows, Scott and Sewell . . . a big frame equal to the task of hectic work on the diamond.

Perhaps there's some youngster just starting out on the road to a new record for consecutive games played. . . . When he passes Gehrig's mark he'll not only have set a record, but will have been one of the greatest players in baseball . . . as Lou has.

President William Harridge of the American league planned to attend today's game between the Yankees and St. Louis Browns and present Gehrig with a silver cup.

An injury launched Gehrig on his marathon. Lou went in as a pinch-hitter for the Yanks June 1, 1925, and the next day Wally Pipp, the regular first baseman was knocked unconscious by a pitched ball during batting practice. Gehrig replaced Pipp and he has been at first base ever since.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Putting the sports shot here and there:

Manager Bill Terry of the Giants admits making one big mistake this year. . . . . He paid Detroit $7500 for Pitcher George Uhle, who had a lame back. . . . . The price was more than he paid for Shortstop "Blondy" Ryan who has been the sparkplug of the New York team. . . . . Despite his some 20 years in the big leagues, "Rabbit" Maranville still gets far more space than any other Boston ball player in the Boston papers. . . . . Frankie Parker, Milwaukee's sensational young tennis player, wears a gold religious medal around his neck at all times. . . . .

It cost Bernon S. Prentice some $5000 out of his own pocket to captain the American Davis Cup squad this year. . . . . The U. S. L. T. Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, says he will urge at the next winter meeting of the American league that all players who marry during the playing season be suspended for the balance of the year. . . . . Midseason bridegrooms invariably lose their value to the team, he says. . . . .

It takes two years to teach a polo pony the tricks he must know to play fast company. . . . . Tommy Hitchcock, greatest of all polo-ists, believes ponies are 60 per cent of the game. . . . . Betty Nuthall, British tennis star, often arises before dawn to buy vegetables for her mother's hotels, of which plumpish, twentyish Betty is manager. . . . .

Jean Shirley, holder of the women's high jump record, is studying medicine at Temple university. . . . . Wrestling in these parts will be quite tame in the future, the boxing commission having put the ban on the workmen jumping from the ring. . . . . Rogers Hornsby was born at Hornsby's Bend, Colorado. . . . . Jim Roosevelt, son of the president, competed in a recent tennis tournament in Massachusetts and failed to survive the first round. . . . . City To Turf Bowl Gridiron At Once

FIELD WILL BE READY FOR '33 GAMES, BELIEF

While city councilmen were debating whether to allow motorcycle racing to be resumed in the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl on Friday nights, Mayor Paul Witmer announced today that turfing of the football field will be completed before the coming season, and that work is expected to start tomorrow.

A meeting was being held late this afternoon by the council to consider the request of the motorcycle promoters. If a permit is granted, turfing will be confined at present to the center of the football field and the extreme ends, with the rest of the field being surfaced after the racing and the night ball seasons are completed.

Work on the turf has been delayed several weeks while city officials attempted to find a sufficient amount of Bermuda grass to cover the large park. A 60-acre field near Costa Mesa was finally located.

Estimate 600 Tons Needed

City Engineer J. L. McBride will be in charge of the work. It is estimated that about 600 tons will be needed to carpet the entire bowl. No sprinklers will be installed at this time, since adequate water coverage has been provided by hose.

With the recent addition of the new block of bleachers on the west side of the Bowl, the field is declared ideal for football. The estimated seating capacity is now nearly 8000 seats, and the bleachers extend on both sides between the 10-yard lines, as well as on the south end.

The first game that may be played on the new turf is between Santa Ana High school and Orange, though this may be carded for Poly field, September 23. The next game the Saints play at home is with Covina, October 6. Since the park is provided with adequate illumination, it is expected that both the high school and junior college will play a majority of their games at the Bowl at night.

Work to Require Two Weeks

Work on the turf will be furnished through the R. F. C., while trucking probably will be handled by city trucks. The operations will take at least two weeks, it is estimated. The field will be loosened on the surface and the three-inch thick sod pressed down on top.

Mayor Witmer, Engineer McBride and several other city officials visited the Bowl this morning to estimate the amount of grass needed.

It is understood the cycle promoters want reduced to $35 the $50 rental they have paid the city, since their former ventures here were not overly successful. The last night ball game on a Friday night is scheduled August 18, since the Stars draw a "bye" August 25, and if allowed to return, the cycle races will probably start on the latter date.

SARAZEN FAVORITE IN CANADIAN 'OPEN'

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Leading American players, topped by Gene Sarazen, were favored to win as the Canadian Open golf championship started today at the Royal Park course. Sarazen is particularly keen to annex the title as it is the only major golf honor he has not held.

Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck, N. Y., shot a fine 70 yesterday as American professionals practiced for the 72-hole grind.

The best Harry Cooper, United States, who is defending champion, could do was a 74. Sandy Somerville, Canadian, who holds the United States Amateur title; Willie Goggin, runner-up to Sarazen in the United States Professional Golfers' association tourney last week, and George Von Elm, another American, each scored a 72.

'RED' GRANGE SIGNS FOR 9TH PRO SEASON

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Having signed a contract to play with the Chicago Bears this fall, Harold ("Red") Grange today was getting ready for his ninth season of professional football.

"I'm in excellent condition and down to playing weight," the "Galloping Ghost" of Illinois university commented.

Gastanaga Meets Perroni at Garden

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Boxing returns to Madison Square Garden tonight with Isidoro Gastanaga, Spanish heavyweight, meeting Patsy Perroni, Cleveland, over the 10-round route. Perroni is making his New York debut after a record of no defeats in two years.

Gastanaga has a string of knockouts to his credit.

Vines Wins As Stoefen Injures Leg

CASINO, NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—(UP)—Ellsworth Vines of California, Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, Francis Shields of New York and Cliff Sutter of New Orleans today reached the semi-final round of the annual Newport Casino tennis tourney.

The defending champion, Ellsworth Vines of California, had an easy time going into the semi-final round. Lester Stoefen, also of California, suffered a recurrence of a strain which bothered him yesterday, was forced to default when Vines led 6-1, 3-0, in the second set.

Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, second-ranking American player, down two sets to Keith Gledhill, California, pulled a great comeback to go into the semi-final round by defeating the Californian, 3-6, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1, 6-0. The match was played in a slight drizzle which made footing treacherous.

Shields defeated Frankie Parker, 17-year-old junior from Milwaukee, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

FOOTE ORDERS GRID PRACTICE OPENING SEPT. 1

Back from a torrid summer in Minnesota, Bill Foote, Santa Ana high school's new head football coach, today set Friday, September 1, as the day on which he will launch practice at Poly field.

Foote opened his offices in Andrews gymnasium yesterday, and for the next two weeks will be occupied mornings with the task of preparing equipment and interviewing returning members of the Saint squad. Captain Ford Underwood, all-league guard, also will be at the gymnasium daily.

Coach Foote said the exeremely warm weather removed much of the pleasure of his visit to his former home in Minnesota. It was so hot that Foote canceled his registration in the Texas Tech coaching school at Lubbock, preferring to return directly to Santa Ana than risk further heat in the south.

GRABER PICKS TEAM FOR TOUR OF JAPAN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Bill Graber, University of Southern California vaulter whose mark of 14 feet, 4-3/8 inches is the highest ever reached, is organizing a group of track and field athletes to take on a tour of Japan this fall, he revealed today. Graber will take a group of from six to eight men to the Orient under the auspices of a Tokyo newspaper. Meets and exhibitions already are being arranged with Japan's leading trackmen.

Graber's first selection for the trip was his arch vaulting rival and friend, Bill Miller of Stanford, who won the Olympic pole vault championship last summer. He has also signed up Duncan McNaughton, University of Southern California high jumper who won his event in the Olympics last year for Canada, and John Brooks of Chicago, N. C. A. A. broad jump champion. All of these men, like Graber, were seniors last year and have completed their varsity track careers.

Coach Dean Cromwell of the Trojans was first invited to organize an American team for the trip, but because he could not leave his coaching duties at S. C., recommended Graber to head the group. The American college stars will leave late in October.

HOFFMAN-ELKS PLAYOFF DATES SET BY BANKS

Santa Ana City league officials today began clearing decks for their annual intra-league championship playoff series. This year it will send the Elks, first-half titlists, against Hoffman's Rebottomery, second-half winners.

Hoffman's automatically qualified last night without moving a finger when the United Presbyterians, the only other "mathematical contender," were defeated by the First National bank, 15-6, at the Municipal Bowl.

The Rebottomers wind up the second-half tonight, meeting the First Nationals at 7 o'clock, but even if they lose to the Bankers they will participate in the playoffs with the Elks.

Lloyd Banks, city auditor and secretary of the league, announced that the Elks-Hoffman series will begin at the Bowl next Wednesday, August 23. The clubs will play a best two-out-of-three, the second game coming Monday, August 23, and the third, if necessary, the following Wednesday, August 30. With the second-half championship already decided, two games postponed on account of the Fiesta del Oro will not be played, Banks said.

The United Presbyterians' rout was decisive. The Bankers attacked Pitcher Briscoe savagely, scoring five times as early as the second inning during a rally which Hitt and Youel climaxed with a homer and a triple, respectively. The First Nationals went on another rampage in the fifth. Pitcher Fred Miller hoisted a home run clear over the left field fence with one aboard, and Ernie Jiles, the next hitter, came right back with another homes. The total output was six runs.

Bachman's Garage dusted off the Elks, 5-2, in the curtain-raiser, the outcome being a mild upset. A four-run rally in the third inning gave the winners a big lead which they never relinquished.

CARDS, U. C. OPPOSE SEPT. 9 DRILL DATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Stanford and California athletic officials today vetoed a telegraphic request from an unnamed Pacific Coast conference member, asking opening of football practice be moved up to September 9 instead of September 16 as originally agreed.

"To make a change at this time would upset our plans," Al Masters, graduate manager at Stanford said.

Officials at California pointed out that all conference members unanimously voted approval at the recent Spokane meeting on the September 16 date.

Notice that a telegraphic vote had been requested was sent out by Hugh Willett of University of Southern California, president of the conference.

Lieut. Christy Mathewson, Jr., U. S. A., son of one of the most-beloved baseball stars of all time, has come home. On his way to Washington's Walter Reed Hospital, young Christy is shown here as he passed through Chicago. His leg was amputated after an airplane crash at Shanghai, China. His wife was killed. Christy will return to China as an air instructor.

SPORTSMEN OF COUNTY AWAIT DEER OPENING

Orange county is getting ready for the opening of the 1933 deer season, set for next Monday. The season in Districts 4 and 4 3-4, comprising Orange, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Imperial and San Diego counties, will be shortened this year, the shooting ending September 15.

From reports of wardens to the state fish and game commission, the districts opened to sportsmen Monday will furnish plenty of sport. Deer are said to be plentiful, in excellent condition, and have come down to the lower elevations more than last year.

In the coastal districts which opened August 1, the success of deer hunters is indicated by the count of tags returned to the division, that shows there has been a marked increase in the number of bucks shot. During the first week the increase amounted to 20 per cent over last year's returns. The second week reduced the figures to 10 per cent.

During the 1932 deer season in districts 4 and 4 3-4 there were legally killed in Los Angeles county 804 bucks, Riverside 487, San Diego, 263, San Bernardino 185, Orange 85, and Imperial 3.

The open season in Santa Barbara, Ventura, San Luis Obispo and Western Kern counties will continue until September 15.

On September 1 the deer season opens in District 1 1-2, made up of Humboldt, Del Norte and the western portion of Siskiyou counties, closing October 15.

There has been an increased interest in deer hunting this year as indicated by the sale of deer tags. As of August 10, the sale this year throughout the state totalled 31,928, as against 28,684 for 1932 or a difference of 3244.

The tags returned to the fish and game office to August 10 were 2074. Last year it was 1830, or 244 less than for 1933.

JAPAN'S BASKETBALL PLAYERS IMPROVING

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Despite the handicap of their size, Japanese basketball players within the next few years may figure as prominently in their sport in international competition as Nipponese athletes do in swimming. This was the opinion given today by Jack Gardner, University of Southern California basketball captain of 1932, who has just returned from a two-months tour of the Orient during which he conducted coaching courses before hundreds of Japanese players and coaches in a half dozen big cities.

Under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Association of Japan, the Trojan athlete was taken to the Orient in June to conduct courses in Tokyo, Osaka, Kyoto, Nagoya, Kobe and Niigata. Japanese basketball players have a remarkable book knowledge of the game and have natural speed and agility for it, but the floor fundamentals and finesses of team-play that are required to make book diagrams work are almost unknown to them, according to Gardner.

Tremendous interest was shown in American coaching methods, players and coaches coming from points as far as 600 miles away to the courses, which were officially staged under the auspices of the Japanese A. A. A.

Gardner said that Japanese players need only a knowledge of fundamentals and better team play to develop splendid quintets as their amazing quickness can overcome the handicap of their lack of size.

SHARKEY-LEVINSKY BOUT DATE SEPT. 15

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Shifting the date for a second time, promoters today announced that the 10-round bout between Jack Sharkey, former world's heavyweight champion, and King Levinsky, Chicago, will be held here September 15. The bout had been scheduled for September 11.

AGUA CALIENTE GOLF TOURNAMENT SURE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Joseph Schenck, president of the Agua Caliente Golf club, gave definite assurance today the annual tournament would be staged at the border resort next January. Schenck said the club would guarantee at least $7500 prize money, the same purse as last year. The tournament will follow the annual Los Angeles Open.

CUBS BUY HIM

In order to pack a heftier punch on their current eastern invasion, the Chicago Cubs spent $25,000 to buy Adolph Camilli, above, first baseman of the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast League. The youngster will take Manager Charley Grimm's place on the initial sack, Grimm going to the bench to confine his efforts to directing the Cubs in their drive for the pennant.

PAVE WAY FOR S. A.-WHITTIER GAME AT BOWL

Both Olive and Westminster will experiment with rookies tonight when they play their National league ball game at Olive.

Manager Bill Cole of the Packers has signed Ed Adams for a tryout at first base and will use little George Padias, a Tustin youngster, at third. Adams, a lanky southpaw, is just out of Oregon State college. Manager George Lackaye plans to give Outfielder Dwight Abern, formerly of the Irvine Orange county league team, a chance in the Westminster outfield.

The rival pitchers probably will be Rudy Heman of Olive and "Fuzzy" Errington of Westminster.

With this game off the card, the way is paved for tomorrow night's big game at the Santa Ana Bowl between Santa Ana and Whittier. The contest is of the utmost importance to Whittier which still has a chance to win the second-half pennant. The only other league game scheduled Friday sends Huntington Beach to Torrance. Anaheim wins by forfeit from Fullerton.

Paul Watson, Whittier's ace pitcher, will be back on the ridge against the Stars. It will be "Chandu's" first effort in two weeks. He sprained his right ankle in an exhibition game, and has not been in suit since but Manager Frank Murphy said Watson would start here.

SHAVER AND DRURY CARRY JONES 'MAIL'

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Coach Howard Jones of Southern California today was building his attack around two U. S. C. stars, Gaius Shaver and Morley Drury, in preparation for the intersectional football battle between East and West stars at Soldiers field here August 24.

As the West team worked out last night under floodlights at Dyche stadium, Evanston, Jones had Shaver at fullback and Drury at halfback. Hank Schaldach of California was at quarter and Max Krause of Gaonzaga held down the other half. This quartet will start, Jones indicated.

WHITE SOX OBTAIN NEW FIRST SACKER

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Zeke Bonura, new hope of the Chicago White Sox at first base, is due to report for duty September 10, it was announced today.

Bonura, a six-foot one-inch slugger purchased from the Dallas club of the Texas league, is leading the Southern circuit batting with an average of .357.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 17.—(INS)—Thud of leather against leather will be heard here today—its football time. More than 200 members of the Naval academy plebe class are expected to report to Coach Johnny Wilson for the season's first practice.

JO CRUICKSHANK GOES AGAINST PEGGY SCRIVEN

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(UP)—The defending champion, Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., today led the field into the quarter-final round of the Women's National tennis championships when she defeated Freda James, English Wightman-cupper, 6-3, 6-4.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who is favored to dethrone Miss Jacobs and gain her eighth National crown, overwhelmed Mrs. L. R. C. Michell, who was non-playing captain of the English Wightman Cup squad, 6-1, 6-2.

Polishing off Art Flum in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3, Lewis Wetherell of Santa Ana today qualified for a quarter-finals match in the Long Beach open tennis tournament, with either Clay Mahoney or Dave Gillam, at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Wetherell and his partner, Bernie Coghland, provided a real upset yesterday in junior doubles when they defeated Gillam and Norman Buck, 6-2, 6-3. In junior singles, Wetherell had an easy time eliminating R. Ross, 6-0, 6-0.

CAREY, LOPEZ DRAW 3-DAY SUSPENSIONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Three-day suspensions today were imposed on Manager Max Carey and Catcher Al Lopez of the Brooklyn baseball club for their part in yesterday's "rowdy demonstration" in the Dodgers-Pittsburgh game at Ebbets field.

Carey was fined $50 for "laying hands on Umpire Ted McGrew."

The suspensions and fine were given by John Heydler, president of the National league, who charged them with having taken part in a "rowdy demonstration."

The trouble started when Lopez protested a decision at the plate. Umpire McGrew declared the runner safe. Lopez threw his mitt into the air. Carey rushed in. More words were exchanged.

Lopez threw his chest protector into the air. McGrew was gesticulating wildly. Carey put up his arms as though to defend himself. Carey and Lopez were waved from the field.

New Oil Activity Scheduled For Yorba Linda Area

BROWN LAND DRILLED SOON; 8 RIGS BUILT

YORBA LINDA, Aug. 17.—Encouraged by the bringing in within the past few weeks of two wells that are said to be producing around 500 barrels a day, the St. Helens company has leased the William Brown property, in the Atwood district, and has placed a rig on the ground.

The oil boom south of Yorba Linda has seen about 18 rigs erected within the past few months, and the two wells said to be producing the 500 barrels of high gravity oil are the one placed by Joe Seeple on the Breen property, and the one drilled by Frank Miller for the Geneva Oil company of Long Beach, on the old Clarence McFadden property, on Buena Vista and Richfield road. Seeple No. 2, drilled on the Breen property, has been cemented off, and reports are they will start drilling through the cement today. This well is below Highland, on Richfield road.

The leasing is still continuing south of Yorba Linda. Otis Hoyt has two wells drilling and the Crystal Gasoline company has several wells and is setting casing now on a well on the Bertram property on Buena Vista street, near Highland.

The Imperial Gypsum company has a well drilling, and Arthur Delaney, who has been on the field some time, has rigs on the W. A. Walker, the McCracken and the Olsen property, rigging up.

The leasing and drilling continues on both sides of Buena Vista street. Roy Thomas is said to have recently sub-leased the original General Petroleum lease, group 4, one-fourth mile north of Buena Vista, and is expecting to drill there soon.

Bolsa Woman's Son Killed In Canada Accident

BOLSA, Aug. 17.—A message from Canada reporting the death of her son, Arthur Sargent, came as a great shock to Mrs. M. Sargent and the sister, Mrs. George Pysden, and brother, Jack Sargent. Particulars have not been received, but it is known that his death was accidental.

Two of Mrs. Sargent's sons were killed in the World war, and another son, who was a police officer in Canada, was shot to death last year. One of the sons, of Mr. and Mrs. Pysden, the grandson of Mrs. Sargent, was struck by a passing automobile as he was riding his bicycle in front of his home last year and killed.

Two other sons remain, Harry, at Upland, and another in England.

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 17.—A picnic party at Anaheim park Tuesday was enjoyed by a number of girls of the Presbyterian Sunday school, the chaperones being teachers of the department, Mrs. B. B. Wise, Mrs. Virginia Patterson and Mrs. Ruth Penhall.

Warner May Be Named To H. B. Council

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 17.—J. Ed Huston, member of the city council and head of the federal home loan office here, and nominated as temporary postmaster in this city, is expected to take over the postoffice within a few days, it was stated last night by D. W. Huston, brother of J. Ed Huston, and Democratic committeeman from this city.

It is expected that when Councilman Huston becomes postmaster, he will resign from the city board.

There is keen political interest in the naming of his successor on the council and petitions were widely circulated in the city this week and liberally signed asking for the appointment of Willis H. Warner to the council. Mr. Warner is a member of the high school board and was a candidate for the council at the last municipal election, receiving a flattering vote. Among those suggested as successor to Huston are Lee Chamness, grocer; W. J. Bristol, member of the grammar school board; J. K. McDonald, real estate operator.

BEACH WOMEN DEMOCRATS TO ORGANIZE CLUB

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 17. — Mrs. Marion Weaver Rawson, former city treasurer of Laguna Beach, has issued a call to Democratic women of this city to meet at the chamber of commerce office at 2:30 p. m. Friday to organize a Woman's Democratic club. The local group is to be a branch of the county organization, now in process of formation.

Mrs. Rawson attended the recent county wide meeting with Mrs. Foster Elliott and was named by Mrs. Frank Harwood as the local organizer. Cards are being sent to 150 women in Laguna Beach and communities as far south as San Clemente, asking that they affiliate with the group in this city. The local club will interest itself in the congressional and gubernatorial campaigns in 1934.

Although Hoover carried Laguna Beach, it also was carried by McAdoo and Democratic leaders here have expressed the belief there are more than 400 voters who will register in the Democratic column next year.

HUNTINGTON BEACH BUDGET REFERRED TO DEPARTMENT CHIEFS BY CITY COUNCIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 17.—The city council wrestled with the budget for the present fiscal year last night. Department heads turned in estimates of their needs. The total sum they wanted for the city government running expenses was $117,486. This was a cut from the previous year, when the budget called for an expenditure of about $121,000.

At the end of the council session, after the entire budget had been reviewed, the council referred the budget to the department heads for reconsideration and revision. The estimate of City Clerk C. R. Furr that a tax rate of $1.50 a hundred would raise $83,843 did not balance up with the estimate of department heads of their needs, totalling $117,486.

There is a deficit of $11,000 from the previous fiscal year represented in an overdraft. Many suggestions as to expense reductions were offered by the councilmen, including one from Councilman Stevens which was jokingly presented and provided for leasing Seventeenth street park for oil, thus cutting down park maintenance.

The council will have another session on the budget subject as soon as department heads have reconsidered their estimates.

The council did not take up the matter of making an investigation of oil wells whipstocked across city streets and supposed to be drawing oil from beneath state tidelands. Mayor Elson G. Conrad and Councilman Chris H. King denied that any agreement had been entered into with Attorney M. B. Wellington of Santa Ana for such an investigation.

Mayor Conrad said that so far this matter was only conversation and expression of opinions by the attorney and members of the council and that no official sanction of the council had been given the proposal. Much opposition to such a plan developed among the business men and oil workers on the ground that the suggestion would be antagonistic to the large development program now underway in the oil field here which is providing employment for 1000 or more men in the oil drilling and kindred occupations.

Members of the council when interviewed privately expressed the opinion that the city would take no action on the matter.

Mrs. Sellers used yellow garden flowers and greenery in decorating the rooms and the long table at which places were laid for the hostess and the honorees and for Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Gordon, Bruce and LaRita Gordon, of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Guy McGee and son, of Nebraska, house guests in the Gordon home; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Rosenbaum, Mr. and Mrs. D. Mangin and Mrs. Anna Zetterly, all of LaVida Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. George Folckemer and Lawrence Gordon of Brea.

Prizes for high score in "500" went to Mrs. Rosenbaum and C. F. Gordon, while consolations fell to Mrs. McGee and Lawrence Gordon.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when McCoy's Drug Store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case? NRA PROGRAM OUTLINED FOR YORBA LINDANS

YORBA LINDA, Aug. 17.—The present National Recovery administration has one great object in view, that of securing Americanism, and of combating the reign of terror that was so imminent when President Roosevelt began his administration, according to Dr. William H. Wickett, colonel in charge of the educational program in the Fullerton NRA setup.

Dr. Wickett talked yesterday noon at the Yorba Linda chamber of commerce meeting, held at the Yorba Linda Masonic temple, where the women of the Eastern Star served a luncheon. He outlined the banking situation, and how the administration had secured control of the banks, showing the "radical elements that the government is stronger than the capitalist," and how his farming bill to aid the agriculturist is producing the same effects, in his efforts to raise the price of products of the soil.

"Another thing the president found that there were ten or twelve million men out of work," Dr. Wickett said. "Of course, those who were feeding on this situation, in their anti-American attitude, did not reckon that there are many men out of work who will not work. Roosevelt began a construction program, one of building, and in this, and in his NRA program is giving opportunity for all to work. The civilian camps were designed to get the young men away from communist elements in the cities."

In conclusion, he told of the efforts to get employment for men in the retail trade program, and urged all to co-operate in buying more, now, and in being willing to pay more for what is bought, to assist in "fighting the enemy with public opinion."

At the close of the talk, a short business session was held with P. J. Ton presiding, where E. R. Walker, secretary, and C. E. Simmons were appointed to attend the meeting of the citizens at Placentia grammar school auditorium Monday, August 21, to discuss the recommendation for a representative of the district on the new Orange County Water district board.

C. E. Musical Rally Staged Next Sunday

YORBA LINDA, Aug. 17.—Something unusual is promised Sunday at 3 p. m. when the Orange County Christian Endeavor society is sponsoring a musical rally at the Friends church here.

The noted director and composer, Elton Roth, will talk and sing. He is director of the Ecclesia choir of Los Angeles.

Robert Townsend, violinist; Georgia Carroll, vocalist; Sallie Watson, harpist, and Genevieve Townsend, pianist, all will appear on the program. A special trio number will be offered by the women of the Anaheim Presbyterian church.

CODE OF CAFE MEN TAKEN UP THIS EVENING

DANA POINT, Aug. 17.—Equal wages for men and women under the NRA plan will be advocated by the Orange County Restaurant association, according to J. W. Groom, of Dana Point, attorney for the organization, to whom has been delegated the task of drawing up a code that will be acceptable to cafe owners of the central and northern sections of the county as well as the coast. But, if the code is approved, women employes will work 48 hours a week, whereas men waiters and bus boys must remain on the job a total of 60 hours.

Chefs, cooks and managers have not been taken into consideration in framing the code, because the cooks have an organization and will be governed by a separate code.

According to Groom, the code will be discussed at a coast-wide meeting of restaurant men to be held at the chamber of commerce office in Laguna Beach this evening at 8 o'clock. Groom is a director of the county association and was authorized by the directors to frame the code.

BREA COUNCIL INTERESTED IN POLICE RADIOS

BREA, Aug. 17.—Brea city councilmen will participate, at least to the point of investigating the merits of the plan, in the proposition to install a police broadcasting station for Orange county, it was decided at Wednesday night's meeting of the council after a letter to that effect had been read from Sheriff Logan A. Jackson. The letter explained that the plan is being promoted in an effort to overcome crime, particularly that of kidnaping.

A communication was read from the State Compensation Insurance department setting out the requirement of the new law which goes into effect on August 21 and which requires that all active firemen be insured in the amount of $5000 and that the premium for such policy be increased from the sum of $2 per annum to $10.41. The council ruled that City Judge C. C. Kinsler, who is also chief of the fire department here, be asked to reduce the active membership of the fire department to six members. Some of the members, it was stated, live out of town and these will be dropped from the roll.

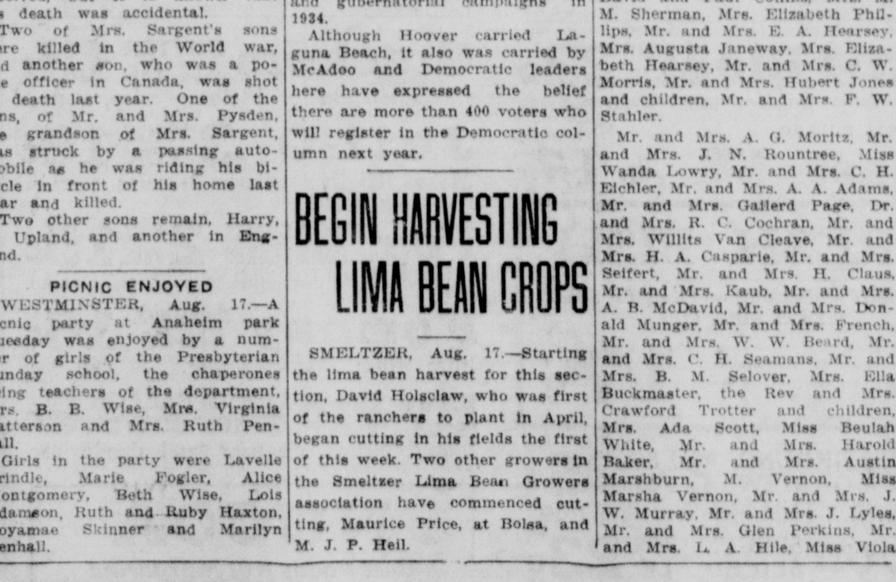

The council adopted a resolution that an application be made to the State Bureau of Health and Sanitation requesting that sewage water, after leaving the treating plant, be used for the irrigation of citrus acreage, thus putting to an end the use of this waste water for irrigation of vegetables.

City Attorney Albert Launer and City Clerk Grace May will this week prepare a tentative budget to be presented at an adjourned meeting of the council on next Wednesday night.

DIVORCE SUITS INSTITUTED BY TRIO OF WIVES

Three divorce suits were filed in superior court yesterday.

Dorothy E. Matlock filed suit for divorce from James A. Matlock, charging cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple, married on September 18, 1918 in Phoenix, separated December 1, 1932. There is one girl, 13 years old.

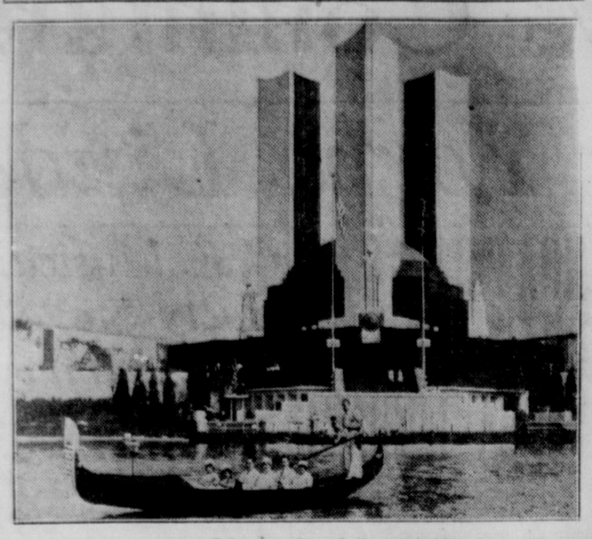

Mrs. Matlock stated in the complaint that her husband had accused her falsely of infidelity and that he objected to her speaking with men in the office where she was employed. She charged that on one occasion he grabbed her by the hair, placed a razor blade against her throat and threatened to "end it for all three of them" if she did not stay with him. She asks custody of the child, for support of the child and for award of the community property.

Charging that her husband was careless in his personal habits, Emma Wealthine Draper filed suit for divorce from James Franklin Draper. The couple was married in Santa Ana December 15, 1920, and separated December 29, 1932. There is one girl, 11 years old. The complaint charges that Draper would go for two months at a time without taking a bath and for 10 days without shaving, all of which injured the fine sensibilities of Mrs. Draper. Draper is engaged in the farming business, it was stated.

F. Olive Wechman, charging extreme cruelty, filed suit for divorce from Albert George Wechman. Married on November 12, 1923, the couple separated April 16, 1931. There are three minor children, nine, five and seven years old.

The complaint charges that the husband struck his wife in the face on several occasions, blackening her eyes and cutting her lips. On one occasion, it was charged, he forced her to remain out all night after locking the door of their home on a dairy ranch in Madera county, and she was forced to sleep in a haystack. Another time he choked her until she was unconscious, it was charged, because she was unable to milk more than half of the 30 cows on the farm in addition to her household duties.

NEW ARCHITECTURAL TYPE

One of the most graceful examples of the new idea in architecture that features the Chicago World's Fair—A Century of Progress, the Federal Building brings to the shore of North Lagoon some of the most intriguing exhibits in the Exposition. In the foreground an Italian gondola gives further proof that it is a World's Fair.

CODE EVADERS SOON TO FEEL WRATH OF NRA

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Register Washington Corresoondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Watch for some hot developments in connection with enforcement of the president's blanket code.

NRA officials are gravely concerned by piles of telegrams from cities throughout the country, demanding help or advice in cases arising from violations or refusals to sign up. Many of these are from chambers of commerce or local drive officials.

The man who signed up, shortened hours, raised low wages and hired new employes in good faith emits a sad plaint as his competitor—a non-signer—faces him with ruinous competition made possible by lower costs.

More "Heat Expected

An example of the sort of thing that can happen is reported from Maryland. A large, nationally known canning firm is operating under the code. Alongside it is another corporation which is paying its workers 10 cents an hour. The tomato canning season will soon be over, leaving the first company operating at a disadvantage for the next year.

After the first rush of code acceptances came another rush of inquiries from employers who had no surplus with which to tide them over the extra costs in the immediate future. Apparently they will have to be granted temporary excuse.

Recent tendency has been to place campaign responsibility for decisions on local agencies. But more "heat" is sure to be turned on from Washington.

Popular Support Seen

One thing every administration official agrees upon:

The plain people of the country are still solidly behind Roosevelt and may be counted upon to support him in any venture he is likely to undertake.

That's important because nearly everyone expects further measures of government control. Washington may find itself in serious conflict with powerful segments of finance and industry.

The facts behind the end of the coal strike in Fayette County, Pa., as privately reported here, bear out the inference from hundreds of thousands of letters and telegrams to Washington that the president retains unprecedented popularity.

Trusted Roosevelt

The miners who returned to work after NRA Labor Advisor Ed McGrady appealed to them in Roosevelt's name weren't interested in the national mediation set-up or the members of its board. They put their trust in Roosevelt alone, believing he was their best possible bet.

The U. S. Steel-owned Frick Co. had spread word that it wouldn't come under any NRA coal code. The miners told McGrady they knew Roosevelt would compel the company to come in.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS CLARIFY SITUATION ON SALES TAX REQUIREMENTS

Perplexing questions asked in regard to the application of the state sales tax were answered today in special bulletins received by the Businss Men's Association of Santa Ana and the chamber of commerce, from state officials in charge of the tax levies.

Prof. Roger J. Traynor, acting director of the sales tax division of the state board of equalization, answered the questions.

While not all of the answers are included in this article, more detailed information may be obtained from Manager Phil M. Brown at the B. M. L. A. office or from George A. Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce. Brown has been taking an active part in dispensing information on the new sales tax.

The following are some of the pertinent questions and answers contained in the bulletin:

Q. If the purchaser refuses to pay the tax, what recourse has the builder? A. He can sue for it.

Repair Work

Q. Our understanding is there is no tax on labor in repair work. Does this still apply on a definite contract if the contractor agrees to do a job for a lump sum, are the materials taxable? In other words, on a new contract, is there a tax on labor and material or on material only? A. On material only.

Q. What about the printer? A. The printer is taxable for all printing material which he furnishes in the performance of his work. He is taxable on the complete job, labor and material, the same as the tailor.

Q. What about the farmer selling from house to house on a regular route? A. Taxable.

Q. Regarding any kind of deferred payment or contract. Suppose I sold something last May, on a deferred payment; sale was completed before the law went into effect. Title has not yet passed, however? A. A transaction whereby the possession of property is transferred but the seller retains the title as security for the payment of the price shall be deemed a sale. The tax is imposed on the gross receipts of retailers from the sale of all tangible personal property sold at retail in this state on and after August 1, 1933.

Photo Finishing

Q. You say photographs are taxable. Is that correct? A. Yes, but the finishing, printing and developing of films is a service not taxable.

Q. Is the accepting of kodak films for development a service? A. Yes.

Q. Case of a subcontractor, entered into contract now for the wiring of a house, set price of $500, including both material furnished and labor for installation? A. Materials sold to owners, contractors, and subcontractors for the erection of buildings and the alteration, improvement and repair of real property. Receipts from sales of materials and supplies to owners to be used by them in erecting, etc., or making improvements on land are taxable. Such sales are to final buyers and are not sales for resale.

Q. Shoemaker receives material for repairing shoes, leather, polish and nails, etc. Are they taxable? A. Yes. Shoemaker the consumer, performing service for people whose shoes he repairs.

Spray Materials

Q. Regarding agriculture—how about spraying materials used on the spraying of fruit? A. Taxable. It is the same as ice that is sold to a grocer to preserve his vegetables, or as fuel oil in a ship.

Q. A dentist does not charge a patient a tax for the gold that is used in the fixing of teeth, does he pay a tax to the supply house that supplies him? A. Yes. The dentist is a consumer of the tangible personal property which he uses in the practice of his profession. The sale of the materials to the dentist is the taxable sale.

Q. An article of interstate commerce is not taxable. Are automobiles that have been shipped into the state and kept in store rooms taxable? A. Yes. The tax is payable for the full sale price of an automobile sold and delivered in San Francisco.

Auto Trades

Q. The average sale of an automobile is a trade-in sale, and the automobile is taken in as a trade-in. The automobile is then delivered to the buyer under contract, and the dealer sells that paper to a finance company, and that price is not the price of the new car? A. Example by Professor Traynor. You buy a cow for $100 on credit and your seller assigns the debt to Mr. Pierce for $90 and you pay Mr. Pierce $100; the sale price of the cow was $100 and by assigning the contract, the seller cannot cut down the taxable sale price.

Q. In the contract of a sale, you usually include insurance. Is it taxable? A. Interest and insurance and carrying charges are not taxable.

Q. On installment sales, why not collect the full amount of the sales tax at the time of the sale rather than dragging it along and encourage conditional sales? A. The law permits the payments on credit sales to be returned in a period in which payments are made rather than at time sale is made, if the retailer applies to state board of equalization to make returns in that fashion.

Building Material

Q. What about the contractor who contracts to build a house and makes a separate charge for materials. A. He is taxable on his charge for materials.

Q. Do municipalities in California pay a tax when buying goods? A. Sellers pass the tax to them.

Q. Are commodities sold directly to the state taxable? A. Yes.

Q. The sale of a quart of milk is less than 15 cents; no tax on single quart; the bill rendered at the end of month is more than 15 cents and is taxable. People refuse to pay tax on bill since each sale was less than 15 cents. A. There is a tax of 2½ per cent on all sales and a sale of one cent is taxable at the rate of 2½ per cent, but since there is no small medium of exchange, the problem of collecting on that small purchase is a difficult one, and the board is now working on a solution of the problem. Every bottle of milk is taxable.

Q. Can a charity organization supported by private contributions be exempted when buying goods? A. Cannot be exempted.

Q. There are a good many people who have two types of business. Do they have to pay two fees, if there is a gas station and soft drink place run by the same person at the same location? A. One permit. If at different locations, a permit for each location.

Q. Is the method of giving slips showing the tax legal? A. Yes. At the end of the quarter each retailer in the state will be required to make a return to the board and to show what was the value of his retail sales for August and September and to pay thereon a tax of 2½ per cent. Our primary object is to collect 2½ per cent of the gross receipts of retail sales.

Discounts

Q. In regard to discounts, I have noticed 100 bills and only one was correct. The vender had a cash discount of two per cent, he first levied a tax upon the commodity, then took the discount; I believe that is not in accord with the rules. A. Cash discounts allowed on sales shall not be included. The total amount of the sale price does not include cash discounts.

Q. Do dairies have to pay a tax on alfalfa, feed, etc? A. Feed for chickens and the car is considered an ingredient part of the chicken and cow and is not taxable, if the cow, chicken, eggs or butter are to be sold.

In the bulletin, Professor Traynor said that there are unfair business practices under the tax, and everything possible will be done to overcome them. One serious problem is the absorption of tax and another is profiteering, he said.

He urged business men to make sure to get their licenses to do business legally after September 1. Retailers should fill them out and send them in to the board of equalization with a license fee of $1, which is good as long as the retailer lives up to terms of the act. The first quarter ends September 30, when merchants should be able to report their sales and should have their books fixed up in such a manner so that everyone can report correctly.

MAKE PROGRESS ON COLORADO AQUEDUCT JOB

Substantial headway on the seven mile Valverde tunnel, one of the outstanding units of the Colorado river aqueduct, was revealed today in a progress report made today by Col. S. H. Finley, secretary of the board of Metropolitan Water District.

With more than a third of the main line of the aqueduct project either under way or contracted for, the Valverde bore is at present among the fastest moving of all the units, according to the district report.

At the present time 2400 men are engaged on the aqueduct, with forces being increased at a rate of 500 per month.

Excavation of the Valverde tunnel is being carried forward from two vertical shafts, extending directly down from the surface of the earth to the line of the tunnel itself. Tunnel crews are working both east and west from the base of each of these shafts.

One of the shafts is 214 feet in depth, and the other 208 feet. Work on a third, and possibly a fourth shaft, will be started about September 1, Col. Finley said.

The work actually launched, or contracted for and soon to be started, amounts to approximately $58,000,000.

Included in the aqueduct job is 92 miles of tunnel, of which approximately 84 miles is now under way. This constitutes the largest amount of tunnel ever to be carried forward at one time in the history of engineering.

Raccoons Leave Gas Station Zoo

Material for a raccoon coat disappeared this week, when two pets belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Worthy, who operate a service station at the Oceanview-Huntington Beach intersection, escaped from their pen and made tracks for the river.

The raccoons had been at the miniature zoo of the Worthys for the past year. They still have a baby monkey, a grown monkey, two grey foxes and two chipmonks.

$2000 Bail Set In Check Case

M. A. Rose, charged with issuing a bank check with intent to defraud, appeared in justice court this morning for his preliminary hearing and was bound over to the superior court by Judge Chris P. Pann.

Bail has been fixed at $2000, which he has failed to post. Mrs. Mattie A. Turner, 914 East First street, complaining witness, charges that Rose gave a check for $20 to Leonard A. Turner at the Santa Ana Iron Works, which proved worthless. Rose was arrested in San Diego August 3.

Tails!—Chinese Win New Dollar

Eight million new silver dollars like the one sketched above had been minted by the new National Government of China when a protest went up that the rising sun was symbolic of Japan and the flying ducks looked too much like an invading fleet of airplanes. So the issue was melted and Robert J. Grant, right, former head of the U. S. mint in Washington, now director of the mint at Shanghai, is reported working on a new die to overcome the Chinese objections.

MOTOR OFFICER HALTS DASH THROUGH CITY AT 60 M. P. H.

A speeding motorist may go undetected in the wide open spaces, but when a car goes whizzing down North Main street in excess of 60 miles an hour, something is bound to happen.

It was unfortunate for a 15-year-old Pasadena lad behind the wheel of a powerful car that Motorcycle Officer Ed Lentz was parked near Santa Clara and North Main streets yesterday afternoon. As it was, Officer Lentz nearly lost sight of the speeder before he could start his motor in pursuit, since the car was rolling nearly 70 miles an hour, the officer reported.

Still rushing along at more than a mile a minute, the car was finally flagged down by Lentz at Seventh and Main streets. Questioned as to his speed, the boy said his sister was swimming at Balboa, and he was going down for the afternoon. His 15-year-old companion had nothing to say.

The young driver will have a chance to explain his hurry in court on August 23 and tell the judge why he failed to note the 25-mile-per-hour speed limit sign on the highway.

REQUEST FOR WILL PROBATE DENIED

Ruling that the document presented for probate was not a will, and that it was unintelligible and ambiguous, Judge James L. Allen in superior court Tuesday afternoon threw the document out of court and halted the attempted probate of the alleged will of John A. L. Stockwell, Huntington Beach bachelor.

The document purported to be his last will was presented for probate by his nurse during his fatal illness, Lillian May Hudson. Judge Allen named Public Administrator Earl R. Abbey to administer the estate.

SUITCASE FOUND

An empty suitcase, rifled by thieves on August 10 and thrown away near Fourth and Ross streets, was returned to its owner, Miss Mary M. Moore, 8200 Franklin street, Los Angeles, by Santa Ana police yesterday. Miss Moore reported the theft of her suitcase from her car while it was parked in th 400 block on West Fourth street. It was found by F. W. Meisel, 602 North Van Ness avenue.

HOPE TO REACH DECISION ON CITY MUSEUM

Agreement on what shall be done with the Bowers Memorial museum is expected to be reached at a meeting this afternoon between members of the museum board and the city council at 4 o'clock in the city hall.

The councilmen will discuss the advisability and possibility of opening the museum to the public or whether to employ a caretaker and postpone the opening until more funds are available to buy necessary equipment. At a conference several weeks ago it was decided there was not enough money at the present time to do more than fit up the apartment for the custodian.

The new building at Twentieth and Main streets has been completed except for the furnishings and display equipment. Securities from the Bowers estate have declined in value to the point where city funds will have to be advanced if the project is finished at this time.

There is some difference of opinion within the council as to the course of action to be taken, although it is generally agreed that a caretaker should be placed in the buildings for its protection. One contention is that since the city has to provide for the upkeep of the building, additional money should be spared to make it of some value to the public. The opposition does not wish to spend any money at all for something that is not absolutely necessary.

Prior to the joint meeting in the city hall, the museum committee is holding a meeting in the office of Postmaster Terry Stephenson to review the applications for the position of caretaker.

The sketch is of PRIMO CARNERA. Cirrus clouds form as high as NINE MILES above the earth. The towers are 610 FEET high.

DISTRICT BOARD RULES ON RIGHTS OF NRA SIGNERS TO DISPLAY BLUE EAGLE

Santa Ana or any other employers who have signed the NRA code and have not actually complied with the terms after signing are not entitled to fly the blue eagle, according to an important ruling issued by the district NRA control board at its first meeting in the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles yesterday.

The ruling was expected to effect thousands of employers in this area. The ruling was interpreted as being a direct reproof to companies, large and small, that have flown the banner of the blue eagle but which yet have failed to comply with the terms of the president's agreement after signing it.

Members of the board of control declared it was a misunderstanding to think employers had until the end of this month or any other period of time to put into effect the provisions after displaying the NRA emblem.

New Arrivals To City Inspire Enjoyable Bridge Party

An enjoyable party given Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prichard, 1106 Poinsettia street, was planned as a compliment to their niece, Mrs. Pat Munoz, who, arriving from Salinas, was joined here by Mr. Munoz from Salt Lake City, to make their home on East Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Prichard assembled a few close friends to enjoy an evening of bridge and sociability. In the card contest, Mrs. Harold Martin, holding high score, was rewarded with a graceful pottery sugar and cream set. At the same time Mrs. Munoz was completely surprised to receive an assortment of packages also, and speedily discovered that she was complimented with a towel shower.

As a final hospitable gesture, the hostess arranged card tables for serving pie a la mode with iced grape punch to the guests who included in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Munoz, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bast, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Martin, Mrs. Grace Stewart, Messrs. Bob Andrew and Elvert Stewart, with the hosts and their daughter, Miss Grace Prichard, completing the party.

Sorority Group Stages Pretty Roof Garden Supper Dance

Adding a mid-summer supper dance to their long list of charming hospitalities, Sigma Theta sorority members last night achieved a brilliant success in the function which had for its setting, the airy patio and roof garden of the Roosevelt hotel in Hollywood.

Gowned in the most graceful of sheer summer organdies and chiffons, the young hostesses found that their guests shared with them, an appreciation of the joys of dancing in this airy spot, with its cool tiled floors and its pretty pool, to say nothing of the delightful dance music furnished by the Gibson orchestra.

Supper at 11:30 o'clock provided a pleasant interlude as the young people sought places at tables whose decorations were in keeping with the colorful scene. When dancing was resumed a special contest was announced, and Santa Ana guests felt a distinct pride in the fact that the handsome silver cup was won by Miss Louise Rurup and Wylie Carlyle, selected by the judges as the best dancers on the floor. The young people received the trophy at the hands of Miss Una Merkel, well known screen player.

Neighbors Plan Party To Welcome Return Of Honoree

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Scott, 518 North McClay street, was the scene of an unusually friendly affair yesterday afternoon, when all the immediate neighbors of Mrs. Scott dropped in to celebrate the family's return to their home after a year's absence, and tie a quilt which she had recently completed.

After securing the quilt, the guests repaired to the nearby home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Card, where the garden, which Mr. Card makes such a beauty spot, proved a cool and delightful place in which to complete their friendly task. Nearby was arranged a table with punchbowl of delicious fruitade with which they refreshed themselves at intervals until the work was completed.

Then returning to the Scott home, the thoughtful guests arranged to serve a tea menu in the dining room, seating Mrs. Card as hostess, and Mrs. Scott as guest of honor in her own home. Pretty rose and green glass used in serving, combined charmingly with the flowers of the decorations.

The group singing of favorite songs was the final feature of the afternoon, shared by the honoree, Mrs. Scott, Mesdames Newell, R. M. Welsh, E. L. Heiss, T. LaMay, S. A. Southard, Wayne D. Tibbs, I. K. Akin and W. B. Card.

B. P. W. Club To Picnic In Hillcrest Park Monday Night

At an important board meeting of Business and Professional Women's club, held last night in the Y. W. clubrooms and presided over My Mrs. Marie Fowler, club president, plans were made for issuing new year books to accord with the definite program changes wrought by co-operating with the National Federation B. P. W. in its program plans for the year.

Since the new plans will be put into effect with the beginning of fall meetings in September, it was found necessary to discard the year's outline as originally planned by the local organization. The new books will have the rearranged committees and the assigned study subjects as proposed by the national program committee of which Mrs. Ann Leidendecker of Los Angeles is chairman.

Other interesting features developing at last night's meeting, included the August committee's plans for a picnic supper which the general club will hold next Monday night at 6 o'clock at Izaak Walton Lodge, Hillcrest park, Fullerton. This will take the place of the usual dinner meeting in Ketner's gold room. Miss Louise Kaiser and her committee will make all arrangements for the supper, but members will be expected to take their own requirements in table service.

Supper reservations for members and guests must be telephoned by Saturday afternoon to Miss Helen Gallagher, 2622. The picnic meeting will be mainly a social affair but there will be several important business matters for the consideration of the entire club.

Co-Hostesses Present Pretty Party And Gift Shower

Mrs. James Ridgeway and Mrs. Esther Runnells, joining Monday night as party hostesses complimentary to Mrs. Clyde McWhorter, had the privilege of entertaining in the home of Mrs. Roy Runnells in Tustin, with Mrs. Runnells lending assistance throughout the evening's hospitality.

The interval succeeding award of prizes was devoted to serving refreshments for which the hostesses centered each linen-spread table with a cunning bassinet in which reposed a tiny baby doll. Home-made ice cream, rich and delicious, was served with cake and coffee, with salted nuts in dainty baby shoes, which served as favors and which were alternately pink and blue.

The dinner itself was an inviting one, with the main course offering thick steaks which the host had barbecued to a juicy tenderness. During the evening hours following the interval around the dinner table, bridge was played informally.

The French have a saying that appeals to me: they say in making soup stock to set the kettle where "the pot can only smile, not laugh." Simmer soup stock if you want it rich and full of flavor. If you have prepared the bones and meat by washing well, it won't be necessary to skim the simmering broth. That scum-like stuff on top is simply the albumin in the meat tissues, when you skim and throw it away, you lose a valuable part of the broth.

Get your herbs ready now for next winter. Find fresh rosemary and dry it, get thyme and dry it, basil likewise, dry celery leaves and parsley in the sun, then tie each one securely in paper bags until you are ready to powder them and transfer to small air-tight cans. And don't forget sage, above all.

Here's something else to remember in making good soup: add two or three tablespoonfuls of quick cooking tapioca to the stock a couple of hours before the soup is done. The tapioca gives the soup a body and smoothness that you find in soups made by a professional cook.

Neopolitan Fruit Mousse

Part I

1 cup apricot sauce
1 egg white beaten stiff with 1-4 cup sugar
1-2 cup whipped cream

Part II

1 cup raspberry or loganberry juice, sweetened
Juice of 1 lemon
1 stiffly beaten egg white

Part III

1 cup crushed pineapple
1-2 cup sugar
Juice of 1-2 lemon
1 beaten egg white
1-2 cup whipped cream

Time is the essence of this delicate dessert, because each layer has to be frozen in turn.

Combine apricot sauce and beaten egg white (sugar in egg) then with the half-cup of whipped cream. Place in pan and freeze rapidly.

Add berry juice and lemon to whipped egg white and beat well, freeze to a mush, then beat well to mix the egg white, turn it carefully over the frozen apricot and freeze it as rapidly as possible.

Prepare the pineapple part just as you did the apricot and put it over the frozen berry sherbet layer, put back in the freezing chamber and finish the freezing.

Serve in thick slices on chilled glass plates. This quantity will serve eight or ten.

NRA GROUP IN CONFERENCE AT C. OF C. FRIDAY

ANAHEIM, Aug. 17.—Anaheim launched its Industrial Recovery drive today with approximately 200 workers, under the general leadership of O. E. Steward, in the field securing pledges of co-operation.

These workers are making a house-to-house canvass of the city, obtaining signatures to the NRA consumer's statement of co-operation. In addition they are making an unemployment survey which is expected to give a definite and accurate upon the number of the city's unemployed, the number of their dependents and the adaptibility of each to the needs of industry.

Finish Monday

This survey is expected to be completed by 4 p. m. next Monday, and each captain assigned to supervise collection of the information in the voting precincts is expected to make a report to Steward at that time on the success of the survey. A meeting of captains and other staff officers is to be held at the city hall at that hour to hear reports.

In the business district the survey is expected to give a check upon the observance of the NRA pledge by employers. A group of five questions has been written for each employer to answer. These are: 1. Have you signed the NRA agreement? 2. How many employes were on your payroll July 1, 1933? 3. How many employes do you have on your payroll now? 4. How many hours per week did you operate your business prior to July 1, 1933? 5. How many hours per week do you operate your business now?

Report Refusals

Persons asked to sign and who refuse are to be reported to captains, Steward instructed. He declared it his belief that if the survey is approached in a spirit of friendliness and of neighborliness none will refuse to co-operate.

"This movement is not a chamber of commerce project," the leader declared. "It is a federal government undertaking that demands the utmost in loyalty from each of us."

Workers on the canvass will not sign children under 16 years of age as unemployed, M. A. Gauer, colonel in charge of man power, instructed. Heads of families will be asked to sign for the entire family, where possible.

Donald L. Williams, major in charge of the canvass of the major portion of the business section, instructed workers to use the utmost diplomacy possible.

National Turning Point

George W. Reid, chamber of commerce secretary, who is acting as NRA secretary, declared that this undertaking marks the turning of the spirit of the nation. No longer are we individualists, he said, but we must act together.

"We've got to take care of each other," he said. "In this movement we are doing something for the perpetuity of the nation."

Each of the majors present at today's meeting introduced his or her captains. Mrs. Vincenta Carleton, lieutenant general in charge of the woman power, introduced her staff workers.

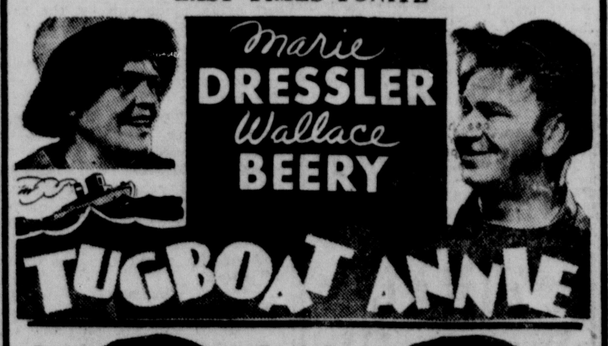

JOB'S DAUGHTERS FUNCTION TONIGHT

ANAHEIM, Aug. 17. — Miss Thelma Woods of 200 North Claudina street will be hostess tonight to Job's Daughters, of which she is a member. The affair will be another of the delightful social events held this summer.

Plans for the affair were made Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Eva Boyd, advisor, entertained the group at her home on South Olive street. In September the regular formal meetings will be held again.

Strange, who was crippled with infantile paralysis when but 18 months of age and lost the use of his limbs below his knees. In spite of this handicap, which by the way he declares is not a great one, he has earned his own living by singing since he was 15 years old.

In a recent yodeling contest Strange won first place among 1580 contestants. The entertainer said he had sung his way through life and that even as a small boy he did not miss so much as might be thought, the sports and games of his classmates, as he painted and sang quite happily while the other boys romped and played.

Murder at Bridge

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When "Bonnie" Dundee intrudes on Fenny Crain, the district attorney's secretary, she tells him she is going to the Saturday bridge-luncheon of the Forsyte Alumnae Bridge Club, given by an honorary member, Juanita Selim. Dundee learns that Penny was forced to work because of her father's business failure and disappearance.

Nita is now renting the house Crain had built from Judge Marshall, who, Penny hints, has fallen for Nita. Dundee drives Penny to the luncheon, and Nita, at first very friendly, is frightened on hearing he is a detective. Late that afternoon Nita is murdered. At the Selim house, where Captain Strawn is already in charge, Dundee sees Nita bowed over her dressing table, where she was shot through the heart, as she powdered her face. Dundee objects to Strawn's theory that she was shot through the window. Strawn agrees to let Dundee question the guests, and he goes into the living room to do so.

Penny introduces him to them all, hesitating slightly over the name of Dexter Sprague, typically Broadway and obviously alien. On asking if everyone invited is there, Dundee learns that Ralph Hammond, once Penny's property but annexed by Nita, is missing.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IV

"Goodby, dinner!" groaned the plump, blond litle man who had been introduced as Tracey Miles, as he sorrowfully patted his rather prominent stomach.

"Don't worry, darling," begged the thin, dark, neurotic-looking woman who was Flora Miles, his wife. "I'm sure Mr. Dundee will ask Lydia—poor Nita's maid, you know"—she explained in an aside to Dundee—"to prepare a light supper for us if he really needs to detain us long—which I am sure he won't."

"How can you think of food now?" Polly Beale, the tall, sturdy girl with an almost masculine bob and a quite masculine tweed suit, demanded brusquely. Her voice had an unfeminine lack of modulation, but when Dundee saw her glance toward Clive Hammond he realized that, in spite of appearances, she was wholly feminine where he was concerned, at least.

"Of course" we are all dreadfully cut up over poor Nita's—death," gasped a rather pretty girl, whose most distinguishing feature was her crop of clinkly, light-red hair.

"I asume that to be true, Miss Raymond," Dundee answered. "But we must lose no more time getting at the facts. Just when was Mrs. Selim murdered?"

At the brutal use of the word a shudder rippled over the small crowd. Dexter Sprague, "of New York", dropped his lighted cigaret where it would have burned a hole in a fine Persian rug, if Sergeant Turner, on guard over the room for Captain Strawn, had not slouched from his corner to plant a big foot upon it.

"We don't know exactly when it happened," Penny volunteered. "We were playing bridge, the last hand of the last rubber, because the men were arriving for cocktails, when Nita became dummy and went to her bedroom to—"

"To make herself 'pretty-pretty' for the men," Mrs. Drake mimicked; then, realizing her cattiness and its possible effect on Dundee, she defended herself volubly: "Of course I liked Nita, but she did think so terribly much about her effect on men—and all that, and was always fixing her make-up, and besides—you can't suspect me, because I was playing against Karen and Nita—"

• • •

"Thank you, Mrs. Drake," Dundee cut in. "Does anyone know the exact time Mrs. Selim left the room, when she became dummy?"

"I can tell you, because I had just arrived—the first of the men to get here," Tracey Miles volunteered, obviously glad of the chance to talk—a characteristic of the man, Dundee decided. "I looked at my watch just after I stepped out of my car, because I like to be on time to the dot, and Nita—Mrs. Selim—had said 5:30. Well, it was exactly 5:25, so I had five minutes to spare."

"Yes?" Dundee speeded him up impatiently.

"Well, I came right into the hall and hung my hat in the closet out there, and then came in here. It must have been about 5:27 by that time," he explained, with the meticulousness of a man on the witness stand. "I shouted, 'Hello everybody! How's tricks?' . . . That's a joke, you know. 'How's tricks'—meaning tricks in bridge—"

"Yes, yes," Dundee admitted, frowning, but the rest of the company exchanged indulgent smiles, and Flora Miles patted her husband's hand fondly and proudly.

"Well, Nita jumped up from the bridge table—that one right there," Miles pointed to the table nearer the arched doorway, "and she said, 'Good heavens! Is it half-past five already? I've got to run and make myself 'pretty-pretty' for just such great big men as you, Tracey—"

"'Tracey, darling'!" Judge Marshall corrected, with a chuckle that sounded odd in the tensely silent room.

Tracey Miles flushed a salmon pink, and his wife's fingers clutched at his hand warningly. "Oh, Nita called everybody darling, and didn't mean anything by it, I guess," he explained uneasily. "Just one of her cute litle ways—Well, anyway, she came up to me and straightened my necktie—another one of her funny litle ways—and said, 'Tracey, my own lamb, won't you shake up the cocktails for poor little Nita? . . . You know, a sort of way she had of coaxing people—"

"Yes, I know," Dundee agreed, with a trace of a grin. "Go, on, as rapidly as you can, please."

"I thought you wanted to know everything!" Miles was a little peevish; he had evidently been enjoying himself. "Of course, I said I'd make the cocktails—she said everything was ready on the sideboard. That's the dining room right behind this room," he explained unnecesarily, because the French doors had been thrown open.

"Well, Nita blew me a kiss from her fingertips, and ran out of the room . . . Now, let's see," he ruminated, creasing his sunburned forehead beneath his carefully combed blond hair, "that must have been at exactly 5:30 that she left the room. I went on into the dining room, and Lois—I mean Mrs. Mrs. Dunlap—came with me, because she said she was simply dying for a caviar sandwich and a sip of—of—"

• • •

"Of Scotch, Tracey," Lois Dunlap cut in, grinning. "I'm sure Mr. Dundee won't think I'm a confirmed tippler, so you might as well tell the truth....Poor Tracey has a deadly fear that we are all going to lose the last shred of our reputations in this deplorable affair, Mr. Dundee," she added in a rather shaky version of the comfortable, rich voice he had heard earlier in the day.

"I'm not going to pry into cellars," Dundee assured her in the same spirit. "What else, Mr. Miles?"

"Nothing much," Tracey Miles confessed, with apparent regret. "I was still mixing—no, I'd begun to shake the cocktails—when I heard a scream."

"Whose scream?" Dundee demanded, looking about the room, and dismissing Miles thankfully.

"It was—I," Judge Marshall's fair-haired, blue-eyed little bride volunteered in a voice that threatened to rise to hysteria.

"Tell me all about it," Dundee urged gently.

"Yes, sir," she quavered, while her husband's arm encircled her shoulders in courtly fashion. "As Tracey told you, Nita was dummy, and I was declarer—that is, I got the bid, and played the hand. It—it was quite an exciting end for me to the afternoon of bridge, for I'm not usually awfully lucky, so when Penny had figured up the score, because I'm not good at arithmetic, and I knew Nita and I had rolled up an awfully big score, I jumped up and ran into her room to tell her the news, because she had'nt come back. And—and—there she was—all bowed over her dressing table, and she—she was—was"

"She was dead when you reached her?" Dundee assisted her.

"Yes," Karen Marshall answered faintly, and turned to hide her face against her elderly husband's breast.

Dundee's swift eyes took in the varying degrees of whiteness and sick horror that claimed every face in the room. Tracey Miles looked as if he would have no immediate craving for his dinner, and Judge Marshall's fine, thin face no longer looked so "well-preserved" as he prided himself that it did. As for Dexter Sprague, he almost folded up against the coral brocade draperies. It was the women, oddly enough, who kept the better control over their emotions.

"Of course you all rush in when Mrs. Marshall screamed?" he asked casually.

• • •

Twelve heads nodded mutely. "Did any or all of you touch the—body, or things in the room?"

"Mr. Sprague touched her hair, and—and lifted one of her hands," Penny contributed quietly. "But you know how it must have been! We can't any of us tell exactly every move we made, but there was some rushing about. The men, mostly, looking for—for whoetver did it—"

"Mrs. Marshall, did you see anyone—anyone at all—in or near that room when you entered it?"

The white-faced young wife lifted her head, and looked at him dazedly. "There wasn't anyone in—in that room, I know," she faltered. "It felt horrible—being in there with—with her—all alone—"

"But near the room? In the main hall or in the little foyer where the telephone is?" Dundee persisted.

"I—don't think so....I can't—remember—seeing anyone....Oh, Hugo!" and again she crouched against her husband, who soothed her with trembling hands that looked incongruously old against her childish fair hair and face.

"Where were the rest of you—exactly where, I mean?" Dundee demanded, conscious that Captain Strawn had entered the room and was standing slightly behind him.

There was such a babel of answers, given and then hastily corrected, that Dundee broke in suddenly:

"I want a connected story of the events leading up to the tragedy. And I want someone to tell it who hasn't lost his—or her—head at all."

He looked about the company, as if speculatively, but his mind was already made up. "Miss Crain, will you tell the story, beginning with the moment I left you and Mrs. Dunlap and Mrs. Selim today?"

SPEAKING OF "SALAD DRESSINGS"

Carole Lombard

You Don't Pay For Water

. . when you buy Best Foods Mayonnaise

It's a fact—so-called "salad dressings" contain 30% to 40% water. So naturally they sell for ⅓ less than a fine mayonnaise like Best Foods

Water is cheap, Miss Lombard—and that's why you pay less for these new "salad dressings."

For even the finest "salad dressing," you know, is nothing more than a cooked-up mixture of water, vinegar and inexpensive cereal "fillers" (as much as 30% to 40%) stirred into a little mayonnaise.

Now do you wonder that "salad dressings" can be sold for less than real mayonnaise? Perhaps, knowing the facts, you wonder why they sell for as much as they do (⅓ less than a true mayonnaise like Best Foods).

There's no substitute for it

If you can possibly afford it, buy Best Foods Mayonnaise always. There is no substitute for its fine ingredients—the same ingredients you use in your own kitchen.

Naturally, no "salad dressing" can give you its same delicious flavor, velvet smoothness, and valuable health benefits.

But . . . if you feel that you cannot possibly afford this supremely fine mayonnaise . . . then be sure to serve the finest salad dressing, which of course is Best Foods.

A far finer Salad Dressing

We have introduced Gold Medal Salad Dressing for all those women who feel they cannot afford Best Foods Mayonnaise . . . and yet want the protection and assurance of highest quality that go with the Best Foods name.

Gold Medal Salad Dressing is the finest and purest that can be made. Women who have tried it say it is marvelously smooth in texture . . . and that it tastes delicious on the salads they serve.

Here, you can be sure, is one salad dressing that is offered to you honestly, that you can buy safely . . . the one salad dressing that is backed by the Best Foods name and reputation.

Both Best Foods Mayonnaise and Gold Medal Salad Dressing sold at all grocers.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

It was a funny sight to see the Tinies, busy as could be, all trying to earth the two fish that were threatening a fight.

"I'll get the catfish," Goldy cried. "Oh, look! Right now it's trying to hide. I saw it swim between some rocks. Right now it's out of sight."

"Well, move the rocks," said Duncy. "Gee, that seems a simple task to me." And then he tried to push one rock. It didn't move a bit.

"Oh, sure! It's easy," Scouty cried. "I noticed, from the way you tried. But, maybe, if we all push hard we really can move it."

* * *

And so each Tiny lent a hand. Their feet would slip. 'Twas hard to stand upon the bottom of the sea. "Let's brace ourselves," cried one.

Just then a big fish came along and Shrimpy cried, "My, it looks strong. I'll have it move the rock, lads. It can show you how it's done."

The fish soon did as it was told. Away one of the big rocks rolled. Wee Goldy stood right near at hand and grabbed the small catfish.

She held it in her arms and said ,"Don't worry. Be real glad, instead. You've had a speedy chase, and you can rest now, if you wish."

* * *

"Now get the dogfish," Duncy said. "It's easy, if you use your head." "Oh, yeah?" answered Scouty. "I have tried to catch him twice.

"But I'll keep trying till I do. Then I'll tell him a thing or two. Instead of pestering the catfish, he must be real nice."

Once more the dogfish started past and Scouty shouted, "Ah, at last I have the little fellow!" Then he held it good and tight. "Now, listen, funny fish,' 'said he. "Please be as nice as you can be. Don't chase the catfish any more. Then all will be all right.'

Why Pay Rent? Says the Monarch of the "Kingdom of Can"

King Jetherow's royal home on the "Island of Can," which is his private dominion in spite of the fact that it is just about in the heart of the city of Des Moines.

THE march of democratic progress across the world is about to proclaim another victory.

The throne of Jetherow the First is tottering, and unruly subjects threaten an early overthrow of the Jetherow dynasty and the inauguration of a popular form of government.

Jetherow the First is Jetherow Johnson, the 84-year-old monarch of the Island of Can, the world's smallest "dominion." He is a firm believer in the divine right of kings but admits his hand of iron is not what it used to be.

"I am an old man and the years on my island are numbered," he said recently. "Why, things have come to such a pass I can't even smoke any more without annoying somebody."

While he talked he puffed on a corncob pipe he made himself, his dark eyes surveying the island he has ruled for 17 years.

But search no geography to find Jetherow's kingdom. On a map of the world the Island of Can would not be as large as the period at the end of this sentence.

THE Island of Can is precisely six blocks long and two blocks wide. It is situated in the Des Moines river near its junction with the Raccoon river and in the very heart of Des Moines, Ia.

King Jetherow's navy insures his diplomatic sovereignty and to date has successfully repulsed invaders who have sought to contest his right to his kingdom and to assume squatter's rights on his territory.

He founded his dynasty in 1916 after giving up the duties of a humane officer in Des Moines. At the time he was armed with no other governmental paraphernalia than a rake, a spool of thread, a jackknife, two pigs, a duck, and 50 cents.

"Look at me now," he says. "This is my island and people call me king."

Rumor has it that Jetherow Johnson under an illusion of grandeur once rigged himself up a throne and actually sat upon it as he dispensed the wisdom of his years to the people of his kingdom.

The throne, according to reports, was a large gasoline can upholstered with three burlap sacks tucked together with strips of royal purple ribbon. It is said still to repose on the island to which it gave its name.

The throne room, however, is jealously guarded and Jetherow holds his audiences with visitors in the open. The fact forestalls substantiation of the rumor.

For several years he remained unmolested. He and his wife were the island's only inhabitants. Fishermen who approached the shores were ordered away. Adventurous youths were put to rout. He planted crops and reaped his harvests. Peace and plenty smiled on the land.

"I ruled by authority of the Des Moines city council and the federal government," he says.

Skeptical persons are frowned down, in a truly royal manner. For all of his rage and arms akimbo, Jetherow the First can, and does, take on the airs of a maharajah when he wants to.

"A grant to my island?" King Jetherow asks in amazement. "But even if I didn't have one it wouldn't make any difference. In London they'd throw you in jail if you asked King George to show you his deed to England. What's the world coming to?"

For the first time in his reign he feels uneasy.

"IT'S my people," he says. "They want progress and freedom, and they don't work enough any more. When I first came here there was only my wife. Now there are my wives' relatives."

King Jetherow's surprising verbal jump from the singular to the plural in the matter of his wives is intentional. His present wife is his fourth. And each wife has bequeathed him a generous quota of relatives, even to cousins of the third degree. But only a few have been given the right to remain for any length of time on the Island of Can.

"These relatives were not so bad till the depression came on," he explains. "But as soon as their money or their positions gave out they descended on me like a plague of locusts. They are not only eating me out of house and home. they want to change everything on the island, too."

His favored subjects are his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Kuhn; a grandchild, Harry Kuhn, 10, and a great-grandchild, Jackie Leonard, six.

"Yes, I was all right till my relatives started moving in on me," continues the king. "They want a new deal and now I can't even balance my budget."

Asked if the depression had hit the Island of Can, King Jetherow says:

"It's all the same to me. I plant my crops and they grow, and up till now I've always balanced my budget. I have never had any trouble with the treasury. In 1932 I took in exactly $2 in cash. What did I do with it? I spent it the same day I got it. That's how my books were balanced.

"But that was 1932. Now I owe 70 cents."

This acute banking problem was brought on by his relatives, King Jetherow says. They have also induced other island disorders, in his opinion.

"I cleared this island myself," he says proudly. "With my own hands I cut timber and cleared the land I needed for my crops. Nobody ever bothered me. The city there"—pointing across the water to Des Moines—"respected my rights. I made this island what it is today. No wonder people call me king.

"Well, everything went along all right till my relatives moved in. Why, the first thing my daughter did after she came here was to paper my house. She even papered both rooms, and she makes me clean the mud off my shoes before she lets me enter my own home. Things are too tidy, I tell you. My wife and I never minded a little mud in the old days.

"BUT if I don't scrape my boots now, there's an argument with the whole family, and it's no fun arguing the whole day long with your kinfolks.

"And another thing. My second wife's third cousin used up all my stove wood mending fences that didn't need mending, and my third wife's brother-in-law wants to get a blamed radio. It's just too much.

"Only that isn't all. Now everybody wants to share everything with everybody else. Like to eat at the same table and share the work and don't do anything that no one else does.

"No, the old island ain't what it used to be any more."

"Everything went along all right until my relatives moved in. . . . Why, the first thing my daughter did after she came here was to paper my house."

King Jetherow and his rickety cable car, which is the only means by which people can get to or from the island.

Seventeen years ago this aged squatter pre-empted an island in the heart of a big city, and there he still is king, though his subjects of late are a bit unruly

King Jetherow's island is without telephone or electricity. His only concession to the modern world, despite the demands of his people, is a phonograph. His favorite record is "When the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold." His stove burns wood from the heavily timbered section of the land.

His isolation is assured mainly because of the hazards of transportation in reaching the Island of Can. Access to the island is over a breath-taking rickety transportation system invented and constructed by King Jetherow himself.

It consists of a crate-like cable car and a wire pulley contraption that is a model of ingenuity. It connects with Punkin Hollow on the mainland.

The cable car was built of scraps of wood and pieces of tin and iron. When you enter it you hope for the best and expect the worst. It is maintained for the exclusive use of King Jetherow, his people, their livestock and the few visitors allowed to set foot upon the island.

RUSTY wheels creak and groan and taut cable wires reach a high-strung falsetto whine when the car is in motion.

The entire system is no more than a patched-up affair, but its sturdiness is well attested. This feat of engineering looks as though it will collapse at any second, but it never does. It has stood the test of time and many crossings.

King Jetherow himself never makes more than two excursions to the mainland a year, and several years have passed during his sovereignty with only a single expedition from his realm.

Persons visiting the island are subjected to extensive diplomatic negotiations before their credentials receive a final approval and the cable car is sent whizzing from the island to Punkin Hollow to carry them across the river.

Punkin Hollow is a nondescript stretch of land lying to the south of the island and inhabited by several squatters' families and innumerable homeless dogs. It is littered with tin cans and broken bottles.

PUNKIN HOLLOW is King Jetherow's base and there a trusted ally interviews prospective visitors and acts with the acumen of a secretary of state.

As a rule these negotiations take several hours and are brought to an end only when King Jetherow himself inspects you from afar (about mid-channel) and either gives or refuses his sanction for the impending visit.

If the king gives his approval, which he seldom does, visitors clamber into the cable car and flash across space until the contraption comes to a wheezing stop on the island.

If sanction to visit the island is denied, as it is at least 95 times in a hundred, King Jetherow immediately calls upon the royal navy to stand by for any eventualities.

The royal navy is an unpainted rowboat. Besides the king, it is usually manned by a member of the king's household and two yapping lop-eared hounds. These hounds are trained to indulge a rabid dislike for strangers.

Land "troops" consist of three very wild billy goats.

In his spare time, which is something like 23 out of the 24 hours, Jetherow the First hunts, fishes, plays with his numerous dogs, directs the cultivation of his land, and basks in the sun.

"Once upon a time I used to sell a few vegetables or a little corn," the king relates with a wry smile, "but now I need it all for my relatives."

Of livestock he has pigs, hogs, numberless chickens, the three wild goats, milk goats, and a team of white horses which he keeps as neat and curried as a pair of pampered riding academy mounts.

Rabbits supply game meat and in the wintertime the Island of Can abounds in quail and water birds. Fishing in season appeases both the appetite for sport and the appetite of the palate.

"Everything would be all right if it wasn't for my people," King Jetherow says. "They want to change things too much. Some of them won't even do what I tell them. What did I make myself a king for if it wasn't to have peace and comfort and obedience in my old age?"

KREG BRIDGE TOURNEY GETS MANY ENTRIES

Great interest has already been shown in KREG's Amateur Bridge Tournament, according to Ernest L. Spencer, manager of the radio station. Within 12 hours after the first announcement 28 entries were received.

This enthusiastic participation proves that Orange County has a large number of tournament players who would play if they had the opportunity.

As announced by the radio station this match is for all bridge players within listening radius of KREG, especially those who consider themselves novices at the game.

High Married Couple's Prize, high ladies' prize and many others are to be awarded. Many players will win a prize without winning the highest honors.

Indications are that this tournament will prove to be one of the largest gatherings of bridge players ever held in California, according to Spencer. KREG cordially invites all interested to enter. Entries are being taken at the radio station and in several stores in surrounding cities.

OFFER NEW PRIZES TO KREG LISTENERS

The Citrus Granulated Soap Company, sponsors of "Growin' Up," which is presented every day from Monday to Friday over KREG, has added another prize feature to their program. Each day a Thor Electric Washer is given away, but naturally everyone cannot win; so in order that each person entering the competition will receive something; the soap company now present a very worth while gift, without any advertising on it, to each individual sending in a letter, telling what they think of this product, accompanied by a box top.

While the competition closes each day at noon, there is no limit on the number of entries a person may send in. Many of KREG listeners compete daily, and several of them have won electric washers.

The program "Growin' Up" is presented each evening at 7:30 and at 11:00 in the morning.

KREG NOTES

In a few days look for the announcement of two brand new programs. According to advance information they should prove welcome additions to the schedule.

• • •

What do you think of those boys from Arizona, known as the "Texas Ramblers?" If you like their program at 8:00 each night except Mondays, drop them a line, maybe we can get them to stay with us.

• • •

It might interest our listeners to know that the good looking chap who plays the violin with the KNX "Arizona Wranglers," under Sheriff Loyal Underwood, was an artist over this station for more than a year. Another well known radio star who has performed many times over our microphone, is reported as about to go N. B. C.; he is the well known Tom Murray, of Beverly Hill Billy fame.

• • •

Tonight is a big night on the Spanish program. Senor Laurent left early this morning for Los Angeles to bring back a group of Mexican artists, musicians and singers. The Glabe Milling Company are responsible for making Thursday's program an outstanding one. This program starts at 9:00 this evening and runs until 10:30.

• • •

If you enjoy fast, snappy music be sure to listen to Tiernan's Typewriter Tempos at 6:15 this evening, you'll enjoy it.

• • •

Tonight's program by the "Musical Merchant," otherwise known as Jerry Hall, will consist of a group of popular numbers, all being requests. On this evening's program Mr. Hall will discuss the NRA and its relation to the tire business. The program is scheduled for 7:15.

RADIO FEATURES

Time References Are Pacific Standard Time

Melodies of American inspiration, songs of the Deep South, and rhythms of negro origin will comprise the program to be broadcast by Willard Robison and his Deep River orchestra at 6 tonight over KHJ. In addition to the orchestral interpretations, Robison's mellow baritone voice will be heard in vocal choruses.

Bobby Jones' stirring triumph in the National Open Golf Tournament at Interlaken in 1930 will be dramatized under Ted Husing's direction in his program with Barbara Maurel, the Hummingbirds and Leon Belasco's orchestra over the Columbia network, including KHJ at 6:30 tonight.

Three compositions, rarely played for radio audiences, will be presented for the first time in the Standard Symphony Hour under the direction of Alfred Hertz during the KFI broadcast between 8 and 9 tonight.

They are the overture to Peter Cornelius' comic opera, "The Barber of Bagdad," written in 1858; the colorful Cossack Dance from Tchalkovsky's seldom-heard opera, "Mazeppa," and "Roses of the South," a delightful waltz by Johann Strauss.

The thrilling flight of the big plane, Southern Cross, from the Pacific Coast to Australia, will be the subject of the current "Conquerors of the Sky" dramatization over KHJ at 9:30-10 tonight.

FRIDAY

Roscoe C. Edlund, president of the Association of Trade Association Executives and manager of the Association of American Soap and Glycerin Producers, Inc., and Robert L. Lund, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and the Lambert Pharmacal company, will discuss "Business and the Public" during a broadcast over an NBC network, including KFI at 3:15 p. m. Friday. This is one of the discussions in the series, NIRA and You.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Return of firmer prices for commodities and a weakening dollag brought a flurry of strength into the stock market today. Prices shot up 1 to 7 points in volume that clogged tickers in the late morning, and held firm to the close in more orderly dealings.

Markets paid more than passing attention to the dollar. The pound sterling touched $4.38 early in the day where it was off 2¾ cents, indicating dollar strength. Later it rose more than 7 cents and other European currencies followed it up to the detriment of the dollar.

Chicago Bd. of Trade

CHICAGO, Aug. 17. — (UP) — A sweeping reversal of form was shown by the grain markets on the Board of Trade today when heavy buying was started by reports of formation of a huge western grain pool to jack up the markets. After breaking the limits allowed at the opening, wheat, corn, oats and rye shot up vigorously when the early liquidation was out of the way. September wheat soared from a low 82½c to 91½. December from 85⅝ to 95, and May from 89⅝ to 99¾. Corn and oats climbed to the limit of price fluctuations. At the close wheat was 2½ to 2⅞c higher, corn was up 4 cents and oats 3 cents.

THE RANGE

	Open	High	Low	Close
WHEAT—
Sept.	.82¼	.91½	.92¼	.90
Dec.	.85⅝	.95	.85⅝	.93¼
May	.89⅞	.99¼	.

TEAR BOMBS IN THE STOCK EXCHANGE

Several days ago we commented briefly on the amusing picture conjured before the imagination by the event of a tear gas bomb being exploded in the Stock Exchange. It develops that the man who discharged the bomb is a Harvard graduate, a man who ran for president at the last election, getting three hundred votes. He carried his tear gas bomb from Boston to New York and rolled it down the ventilating shaft in the Stock Exchange building, whence its fumes were blown into the stock exchange chamber, sending its brokers and officials scurrying wildly into Wall and Broad Streets with tears streaming from their eyes, and closing the Stock Exchange for the rest of the day.

Had it been an explosive bomb instead of a tear gas bomb, a cry of horror would have gone up all over the country. But as it was, it has set the people of the country laughing. To see hundreds of dignified men rushing out of the Stock Exchange in tears, with the Stock Exchange adjourned for the day, seemed a good deal of a joke. It has been many years since the members of the Stock Exchange have shed tears, although there are many in the country who feel that many tears of penitence should have been shed there during the past few years.

The man who perpetrated the joke was more serious than he was malicious. He returned immediately to Boston, where he was apprehended by the police and returned to New York. When he arrived there, the police could find no law which fitted the case. Finally, he was charged with committing a common nuisance—an offense punishable with a paltry fine. Large bail has been exacted, however, and the prosecuting officers are trying to find some other law which will cover the case making it possible to fit the punishment to the offense.

The police have long ago dispensed with the fire hose in dispensing mobs. Tear gas bombs have been found much more effective, and far less damaging to clothes and feelings. Now that an ingenious radical has found another use for them, there are those who are saying, "There ought to be a law." And we suspect that there will be a law covering such cases from this time on. It takes more or less of a genius to commit an offense heralded all over the country on the front pages of the newspapers for which there is no prescribed law and no adequate penalty.

MERCHANTS APPROVE REDUCTION

We were glad to note that the merchants of the city, after examination into the facts, approved the action of the city council in the reduction of expenses which it has made.

Our city trustees have put many hours and days upon a thorough survey of the cost of our city government, and made comparisons with many cities of similar size and under similar conditions. And following this survey, the trustees made the cuts which they have put into effect.

We believe there is no doubt but that taking it by and large, the city will be as well run, as well protected, and as well conducted as it has ever been. It may be in some cases it will be found that there is too much elimination, but in such cases, it can be readily readjusted without serious difficulty.

Expenses of the city, like personal expenses and the expenses of corporations, increase during prosperous times almost imperceptibly, money is easy, and added expenses come from surplus. Experience has shown us at times that actually a decrease in expense has worked toward greater efficiency in every direction. It would be unfortunate if any help had to be eliminated in such a period as this.

The remarkable thing about the manner in which our city council has accomplished this, has been that there is actually no elimination of men. There have been some readjustments and those past the age of 65 are put on part time work, but this is in keeping with the spirit of the times. We cannot conceive of a thing being worked out in the interest of the taxpayer and of the worker in a finer way than this has been done.

We believe that keeping taxes down under present conditions, when real property is so low in price, due, in part, to high taxes, that the reduction of the tax will aid other factors, in giving such an impetus to general buying and business in various directions, as to more than take up the slack, due to elimination of help in the public business. In any case, as we have noted in Santa Ana, there will be none let out. But it shows the result of study and consideration that certainly cannot be surpassed by any group of public officials in any city.

NEW LIGHT ON THE POET WHITTIER

It is a dull day when some enterprising publicist does not send out a book throwing new light on some of our historic characters whose real lives have been obscured by the halo of a legend. Washington, Hamilton, Lincoln, Jackson, and a score of others who have become immortals in the American Valhalla, have been written up in a new light, bringing them down out of the clouds and revealing them as human beings after all.

The latest well-known American to fall under the microscopic eye of one of these enterprising writers is John Greenleaf Whittier, always referred to as the "Good Quaker Poet." Albert Mordell in "The Quaker Militant" gives us a Whittier long since forgotten. The gentle invalid, writing tender hymns sung reverently in all our churches, in this book is revealed as a militant crusader. Letters stowed away in old boxes, enshrined in libraries and private collections; editorials written by the young crusader in anti-slavery days, indicating that he was no mean politician; and, finally a lover of women, and loved by many of them, give us another Whittier.

Those who are familiar with the life of the poet during the long years of his life are not surprised at the character Mr. Mordell has drawn. They knew him during all the changing years. He was an attractive young man, much sought out by the ladies. And his letters reveal that he was not at all indifferent to their many attentions. These letters are a reminder to all who expect to be famous to observe the rule given by a Tammany politician long ago, who always said to his subordinates, "Don't write; send word."

But, after all, these last phases of his life mentioned are not so very important. These letters add new light for those who did not know the real Whittier. But they simply reveal him as a human being who shared with all of us the follies and frailties of our common human life, yet added thereto a record of achievement which lifted him high among his contemporaries. The prophet of freedom, who dared and suffered for the unprivileged and the enslaved; the singer of sweet songs; the portrayer of the barefoot boy and the schoolhouse by the roadside; and the seer who could see the divine in common things, there was the man. The love letters and the idle philanderings were incidents in a life wholly dedicated and nobly lived.

WINDOW DRESSING

In the life of every important man and every important movement there is always a good deal of what is commonly called "window dressing." This window-dressing is introduced to humanize men who are stolid and distant, or to make a bit greater the man who happens for the time to be in the public eye. Every great man is a victim of it. The commonplace man revels in it when he reads it about himself. He never thought of it until some one fastened it upon him, and he was flattered by it.

The present national emergency has brought to light a great many men hitherto unknown. No doubt, among them are a great many able men. But one would think, in reading the publicity material concerning them, that here was a race of great lights and able leaders who have been wasting their fragrance hitherto on the desert air, but their country's emergency has brought them out of obscurity or hiding.

The fact is, the country is always rich in men and women able to serve their country in times of emergency. But those who are chosen must be justified by those who have selected them for specific tasks in this emergency. Without reflecting upon the truly able men who are serving the country at the present time, it is just as well to remind ourselves that there are a great many who are just plain office seekers being rewarded for party service.

We are thoroughly sympathetic with the experimentation that is going on looking toward economic recovery. We believe good work is being done, and that it is being done in the main faithfully, honestly and effectively. But this "window dressing" of every man who is having a part in the work should not be taken too seriously. All of it is publicity. Much of it is in the window, and not on the shelves behind the counter.

Lindberghs See Greenland

San Francisco Chronicle

The Lindberghs are seeing Greenland, probably in the most comfortable way. Their summer excursion reminds us how little Greenland attracts the world's notice. Only when an expedition cracks up there or a transacean flyer happens to land—particularly if he lands without permission, as an American did recently to his sorrow—does Greenland get into the news.

Yet Greenland is the world's largest island—counting Australia as a continent. The ice cap which covers all the interior of the island is the largest glacier in the northern hemisphere—four and a half times as big as California. The fiord system which rings the island is the most extensive in the world. The scenery on the coasts is stunning—so are the mosquitoes on a warm day! For there are warm days in Greenland, in spite of the icy mountains. The Danish colonists in the south raise vegetables and enjoy lovely flower gardens.

Greenland is also the scene of one of the best examples of enlightened handling of a native race. The Danish government considers itself a trustee, in the best sense, for the Eskimos. Greenland is managed with an eye solely to the benefit of the Eskimos. For this reason trade is a government monopoly, which sells to the native at cost. It is for this reason also that no one is allowed to land in Greenland without a special permit. The government does not propose to have outsiders interfering with the Eskimos or shooting their game. All this costs Denmark more than she gets from the island, but the Danes, having in the past acquired the responsibility, cheerfully maintain it as such.

Perhaps the most enlightened point of the whole policy is that no attempt is made to make white men out of the Eskimos. On the contrary they are being intelligently developed as Eskimos.

To Honor Kosciuszko

Oakland Tribune

The Postoffice Department is about to pay acknowledgement to the services of Thaddeus Kosciuszko, Polish patriot, to the cause of American liberty during the Revolutionary War by issuing a special postage stamp in his honor.

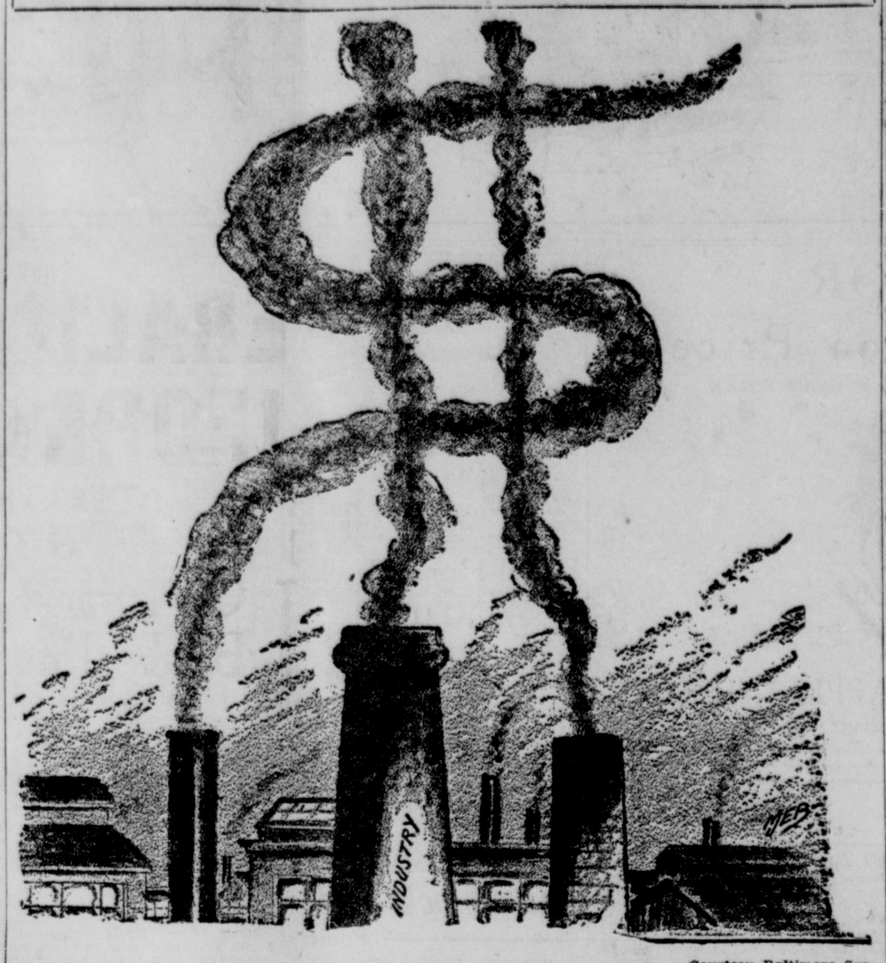

Every school boy knows of Kosciuszko, along with Lafayette, De Kalb and Von Steuben, and the new stamp will be welcome not only to stamp collectors.

Kosciuszko came over from his native Poland to aid the American colonists in their fight for independence and for ten years gave his services to the Continental Army, becoming an American citizen. He designed and laid out West Point, where ever since officers of the United States Army have been trained.

Returning to Poland to fight for the independence of his native land, Kosciuszko was captured and thrown into prison.

A statue of him graces our national capital and throughout the country groups of our citizens of Polish extraction have kept alive the memory of his heroic deeds. It is fitting that he is now to be honored with a special stamp.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

OUT OF THEIR CORNER

The chemists will shortly be able
To feed us on tablets and such,
So we'll get just enough
Of digestible stuff,
And never the least bit too much.
We shall not need to eat at the table;
A capsule will carry our food,
And a granule or two
We can lazily chew
Whenever we feel in the mood.

But what of the beefsteak and onions
And the succulent gooseberry pie,
And the sugar cured ham
And the waffles and jam
Which gladden the hungering eye?
And what of the crisp lettuce salad,
And the lush, creamy camembert cheese?
We should barely exist
For a week, if we missed
Such delectable victuals as these.

The chemists perform endless marvels;
These learned and keen-minded men
Take an atom apart
And examine its heart
And put it together again.
Their service to civilization
Around the whole planet is known,
But they'll do quite enough
If they stick to their stuff
And let our good victuals alone.

Little Benny's Note Book

My Cuzzen Artie slept at my house last nite, and after supper pop was smoking and thinking in his private chair and me and Artie started to have a argewment pritty near ending in a fite, me saying, Aw, who do you think you are, you gimpty looking fried egg.

I'm a darn site more than you are, you squash face persimmon, Artie said, and I said, You ony think you are, you punkin hedded tack sitter.

Here here, and there there, pop said. Why can't you boys be a little more curteous to each other? Nine tents of all the friction in the werld results from a lack of common politeness. Take an example from the French. They're the politest people in the werld, and as a result they never squabble in public, or if they do they do it in such a polite manner that nothing but plezzure is felt by everybody including themselves. So for Peet sake take an example from the French, he said.

Wich we did, starting to argew as polite as anything, me saying, I hope you'll excuse me, my deer Alfonse, if I seem to happen to remark that you are a goofy looking hunk of sour mush..

Not at all, my deer Gaston, and I'd like to beg your pardon while I call you a half pound of limberger cheese, if it's all a same to you, Artie said, and I said, Dont mention it, I assure you, and I hope you wont mind me saying that you'd look more like a stepped on tomato if you didn't happen to look so much like a frizzled onion.

Ceese firing, pop said. I may of been wrong about the French, but the next polite or impolite crack out of either one of you and you'll both go packing off to bed with my most polished greetings and salutations, he said.

So we just gave each other some fearse looks and started a game of lotto.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

AUGUST 17, 1919.

Will Armstrong and Neal McClintock left for a two weeks' hunting and fishing trip, in Sequoia National park.

Mrs. T. E. Stephenson and Miss Rosa Boyd were spending the week at Laguna Beach while T. E. Stephenson and son Ted were having a hunting trip at the Joplin ranch in Bell canyon, and Dr. J. P. Boyd, C. E. Utt and daughters, the Misses Louise and Elizabeth Utt, were at Crater Lake, Oregon.

Farm Advisor Harold E. Walberg left for a vacation trip to San Francisco and to his Glenn county ranch and would be away from his office until the first of September.

The board of education awarded the contract for building the new athletic building on the high school grounds to Kidder and Shipp, whose bid of $7,190 was low among the five bids submitted. Work on construction was to begin at once in order to have the building completed by the opening of the school year.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

RADICALISM GOES RESPECTABLE

It is amusing to watch the way in which the radicalisms of yesterday become the respectabilities of today.

In an address before a conference of major industries attended by 1500 of the nation's leaders of business, industry and finance in Chicago in 1930, in a baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the University of Wisconsin in 1931, in a volume called Thunder and Dawn which I wrote in 1932, in testimony before the Finance Committee of the United States Senate last February as well as in many discussions before varied groups of Wisconsin citizens and throughout the country during the last eight years, I have consistently contended that the very continuance of our economic order depends upon a wider distribution of the national income.

I have not mean by this any political redistribution of the existing wealth of the people.

I have meant a wider distribution of the week-to-week and month-to-month current income of the nation through a more businesslike and more statesmanlike administration of hours, wages, prices and profits.

I have contended that we must move towards shorter hours, higher wages, lower prices and smaller profits per article or transaction or resign ourselves to the suicide of our high-powered machine economy.

I have contended that this is not social radicalism but only sound business sense and enlightened self-interest on the part of business and industrial leadership.

But for my insistence upon these principles, with which I think the best brains of the business world agree, a few political demagogues of the conservative wing and a few industrialists in Wisconsin contended that personally and through the University of Wisconsin, over which I preside, I was fostering a dangerous radicalism.

Now these principles are seen to be the basic planks in the program for national recovery, and men without number who lately damned these principles are today with varying degrees of enthusiam embracing them as life savers.

As I said yesterday, these are not magic wands that will solve our problems with the waving, but they are conservative principles of sound machine age economics.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

NO REINFOCEMENTS

Bob and Allen and the boy from across the way were playing woodsmen in a tent on the lawn that lay between Bob and Allen's houses. They had pooled their resources and possessions to make the camp complete and for several days all had gone well. The peace of the afternoon was broken by Bob's shrill tones.

"You give that to me. I don't care who owns it. You hand it over."

"Like fun I will. Who do you think you are? This is my gun and I'm going to use it when I want it."

"You will not, either. I'm chief today and you have to do what I say and I say, Hand that gun over."

There came sounds of a tussle, smothered words, and then, "All right for you, Bob Witherbee. You'll see. I'm not going to play with you any more. I'm going to take my things and make a camp of my own."

"Go ahead. Who wants you, if you're such a bad sport? Go on and make a camp. Who cares? The trouble with you is that you're no sport. Cheap sport. Cheap sport. Can't have your own way you go home and cry. Go on home why don't you? Do I care?"

Allen's mother opened the screen door and called, "What's the trouble, Allen? What's he doing to you?"

"He took my gun and won't give it to me and he's calling me names."

"All right. Take your things and come home and stay home. Don't have anything to do with a boy like that. Bob Witherbee hereafter you stay on your own side of the lawn and keep your things where you are. I don't want my son to have anything to do with people like you. I've tried to be neighborly but there are some things a person can't stand. This ends it."

Bob, somewhat stunned and thoroughly subdued, turned toward his home. His mother said, "What's all the row about? What did you do?"

"I didn't do anything. Today was my day to be chief. Allen was it and David was it, each once, and it was my turn. When you're chief everybody has to mind what you say. I minded them when they were it but Allen wouldn't do a thing I said. He took the gun to go hunting buffalo without orders. He should have waited for my orders and he wouldn't and I told him to hand over the gun and he wouldn't and then his mother came and all our fun is spoiled."

Grown people spoil children's fun by interfering. Let them fight their battles out. Let them alone, especially when the battles are verbal ones, without weapons save fists, and they will manage all right. It is seldom that boys cannot get along together if the grown people will allow them to do so.

They always quarrel. And just as surely, they make up. The spats of childhood are serious only when grownup people interfere in them and enlarge them into feuds. Just let the children alone. If they get too warm about something call their attention to another matter, maybe some cookies, a couple of apples, a handful of peanuts. Keep the peace by letting them cool off. It is much better.
